Tornado's Toll 889 Dead, 10,000 Made Homeless

Wreckage of Stricken Cities and Towns Still Being Searched for Victims—Families Were Separated and Survivors Hope Missing Members Are Alive—Aid and Supplies Rushed to Devastated Area.

A careful recheck of casualty figures in the five states where Wednesday's tornado tore out its path of destruction, today showed 817 dead, approximately 3,000 injured more or less seriously and 10,000 homeless.

These tabulations were compiled by International News Service from Red Cross reports and the figures of couriers sent through the devastated area and are believed to be as accurate as it is possible to obtain from the maze of destruction which the storm wrought.

The death toll from Wednesday's tornado, revised by states today, stood:

Illinois, 650.
Indiana, 175.
Missouri, 31.
Tennessee, 34.
Kentucky, 8.
Total, 889.

The Known Dead.

Official "known dead" consisting of bodies recovered, issued by the Red Cross at 8 o'clock this morning gave the following totals:

Illinois.

West Frankfort 114 dead and 300 missing.
Bush 11.
Murphysboro 202 dead and 20 missing.
De Soto 110.
Gorham 35.
Parrish 30.
McLeansboro 18.
Logan 15.
Enfield 13.
Hurst 5.
Thompsonville 8.
Carmi 3.
Crossville 2.
Total for Illinois 566.

Missouri.

Cape Girardeau 8 dead.
Biehele 9.
Annapolis 3.
Altenburg 2.
Total 22.

Total for Illinois and Missouri, 588 bodies recovered. Estimated deaths in all towns bring possible total for Illinois to approximately 650.

Indiana.

Griffin 50.
Princeton 20.
Owensville 25.
Poseyville 5.
Elizabeth 3.
Total 103.

Kentucky.

Lakeland 3.
Springfield 2.
Lexington 1.
Outlying points 2.
Total 8.

Tennessee.

Summer county 27.
Shelbyrille 5.
Knoxville 1.
Kirkland 1.

Still Searching for Dead.

Chicago, Ill., March 20.—With the light of another full day to guide their efforts, organized rescue crews started out today to comb the ruins for still more victims left in the wake of the tornado that tore a path of sudden death, destruction and desolation through southern Illinois, Missouri and Indiana on Wednesday.

Early today the toll of the storm was again reviewed and 889 numbered as dead.

But this total may not stand throughout the day. Some officials who have been along the stricken path believe it may go to a more appalling figure.

The injured were totalled variously between 3,000 and 4,000.

10,000 Homeless.

At fewest 10,000 have been made homeless.

Of the dead the great majority were killed in southern Illinois, where 650 was placed as the total. In Indiana 175 were killed. Missouri lost 31.

A check up of the injured in the hospitals by representatives of the Red Cross indicated that many of those who were taken alive from wreckage after the storm roared on its way are nearing death from their injuries.

Many officials are fearful that the ruins of larger buildings in Murphysboro and West Frankfort, Illinois, may yield more bodies. Colonel Albertson, of the Illinois National Guard, ordered troops in southern Illinois to make an immediate search of the wreckage.

Relief work was making rapid progress, according to reports received at Red Cross headquarters. More than a thousand doctors and nurses were in the field and train loads of supplies had reached their destinations.

Many Families Separated.

"We have about 125 bodies in morgues here this evening and more are being brought in. We don't yet know how many dead there will be. A lot of buildings were torn all to pieces, and you have to dig about in the debris to find out whether there are any dead among them. You can't check up the living and find out how many are dead because the living don't know within their own families in many cases. A man, woman or child may be missing, but whether alive or dead is not known.

"Every family with a member unaccounted for hopes the loved one will turn up in the home of a neighbor. But they don't know and we can't find out for a long time yet. This work is just getting well organized."

The story that came by telephone from West Frankfort was similar to the story that came from Murphysboro, a city not far from West Frankfort. Nobody knew just how many had lost their lives, none knew how many were injured.

And it was the same story from a score of other cities and villages—Parrish, De Soto, Bush, Enfield, Thompsonville, McLeansboro and the others in the path of the great storm.

There are out of the way places, lonely farms, where no relief worker has yet been able to penetrate. These are expected to add to the casualties already enumerated.

Action Against New Jersey Firm

A. J. Marks, Local Manufacturer, Seeks to Recover $2,500 for Balance of Contract With Apartment House Contractors of Summit, N. J.

An action brought by Albert J. Marks of this city against E. Wyatt Blanchard and another, contractors engaged in the erection of apartment houses at Summit, N. J., in the year 1923, was taken up in the Supreme court this morning. Mr. Marks, who conducts a small factory in this city, where he manufactures millwork and interior trim, brought the action to recover a balance on a contract which he entered into with the defendants for materials to be used in their contract at Summit.

Plaintiff claimed that he entered into an agreement with the defendants to supply certain materials and that no specified time was stated for their delivery other than "as soon as he could." He contended that the defendants knew the capacity of his mill and his ability, he having been employed for some time by them as their foreman on construction jobs. The contract entered into was to supply certain materials for the sum of $5,000. Prior to that time he had done work for them. He contended that he entered on the work to the capacity of his plant and that he shipped them materials.

Later Mr. Blanchard came to Kingston and told Mr. Marks that they were not getting material as fast as they needed it to complete their contract in the time they had and that they would go outside and purchase certain material and charge it up against his contract price. This was done and the plaintiff claimed that they by that act broke the contract which he had entered into with them and that he became entitled to receive a fair price for the materials supplied on the contract which amounted to about $3,000. Of this sum $500 has been paid and he brought suit to recover approximately $2,500.

The defendants claimed that by not receiving material when needed from Mr. Marks they sustained damages and lost money as they were unable to complete their contract on time. They asked to recover damages from Mr. Marks for this loss.

Defendants further claimed that a contract entered into in February, 1923, was not completed until December. This contract amounted to $2,400. The later contract for $5,000 was entered into and materials on this contract were never all supplied and it was necessary to go outside and secure certain material to complete the job.

They claimed that through misfortune and injury to employes of Mr. Marks it was impossible for them to get material when needed and that he knew they were to go outside and get material to complete their job. The defendants claimed it was agreed that Mr. Marks should continue to manufacture material and ship it to them and that any material which they did not get from him was to be bought outside and charged against the contract which he had with them. On account of the slowness in getting certain material the defendants claimed that their contract was not completed in October as their contract specified and that they therefore lost money and now seek to recover from Mr. Marks for such loss.

H. LeRoy Gill and Harry H. Flemming appeared for plaintiff and Frank W. Brooks appeared for defendants.

School Children Sent Out Before Tornado Struck

Illinois School Principal Had Dismissed Half of School When Building Crumpled Under Force of Storm—Rescuers Tore Their Hands to Bone.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Carbondale, Ill., March 20.—Southern Illinois was emerging today from its cataclysm of horror, grief, misery and terror and for the first time since it felt the devastating breath of the tornado Wednesday, it was beginning its recapitulation of lives lost and property damaged.

Out of the awful checking and rechecking are coming the first real stories of those death laden minutes during which towns were transformed into ruins and lives were destroyed.

At the Longfellow school at Murphysboro, J. E. Fisher, principal, stopped from his work of burrowing in the ruins, where since the storm he has been searching for the bodies of his ten little first graders, reported missing, and gave his version of the calamity.

"The clock stopped at 2:32," he said, "so that must have been the time. I heard the thing coming and ran to the hall just as the children, 450 of them, were striving to reach the stairway. I halted them at the head of the first floor stairs. They looked at me so confidently and never questioned my orders.

"The rumble was growing steadily. I knew there was not much time, but I spoke to them quietly—told them to go out without crowding and to get away from the building. The ten teachers and I were striving with all our might to keep them in line.

"I figure about half of them were out when the tornado struck. The top of the building crumpled and came down in a shower of bricks and beams—right down on their little heads.

"I remember glancing across to the railroad shops there. What men were left alive came on the run for the school. Nearly every one of them had a child or two there. They jumped into the wreckage, tearing their hands to the bone in an effort to lift the debris from the torn bodies which it hid.

"Many of the youngsters were saved that way but there were some that were beyond help. Ten bodies have been taken out already and others are reported missing."

Rickard to Face Sentence Tuesday

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Trenton, N. J., March 20.—Five co-defendants will face Federal Judge Bodine in the federal court here next Tuesday for sentence, following their conviction last night on charges of having transported Dempsey-Carpentier fight films from New Jersey in violation of federal law.

The five are George L. "Tex" Rickard, fight promoter; Fred C. Quimby, who produced the films; Teddy Hayes of Los Angeles, formerly Dempsey's secretary; Frank B. Flournoy, match-maker at Madison Square Garden and Jasper C "Jap" Muma, Washington and Cincinnati newspaperman.

Annual Muster Of Battery B

The annual muster and inspection of Battery B, Field Artillery, will be held at the state armory on Broadway this evening. The inspecting officers will be Colonel Razan for the state, Major Thurber for the Federal government and Colonel Egan and Captain Needham for the regiment. The public is cordially invited to attend. The inspection will start promptly at 8 o'clock with the members of the Battery in full uniform and with complete equipment.

May Appoint a New Policeman

The board of police commissioners will meet in regular monthly session tonight at the city hall at which time it is expected that an appointment will be made to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Policeman Kuehn. The three men from whom a selection will be made are Lemille Relyea, Harold Bowser and Clarence Brophy.

Noted British Statesman Dead

Marquis Curzon Succumbs to Illness Following Operation—Was Leader of Isolationists—Twice Married to American Women.

MARQUIS CURZON

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, March 20.—Marquis Curzon, lord president of the privy council and leader of the aristocratic isolationists in British politics, died early today from illness which followed an operation on March 9.

His condition had been critical for three days and his physicians despaired of his recovery Thursday night. Lung complications sped the course of his final illness.

Only a short time ago in a speech Lord Curzon said he had composed his own obituary:

Lord Curzon had been married to two American women, his first wife being Mary Victoria Leiter of Washington, D. C., and his second the daughter of the late J. Monroe Hinds, formerly American Minister to Brazil.

As he left no sons, the marquisate becomes extinct. His viscountcy passes to his nephew, Richard Curzon and the eldest daughter of his first marriage succeeds to the baronetcy. His youngest daughter was at his bedside when he died.

Lord Curzon's death probably will mean a liberalization of British foreign policy. He had been leader of the isolationists and opposed to a French security pact. His death probably will mean that the group led by Austen Chamberlain, foreign secretary, will have a freer hand.

Despite his American marriage alliances, he never was accused of being an Americanophile. In fact, he had several stiff tussles over diplomatic affairs with Colonel George Harvey, when the latter was ambassador to Britain.

London evening newspapers today paid high tribute to Lord Curzon as a "leader of the empire." Premier Baldwin for the Tories, J. H. Thomas for the Laborites and Sir Godfrey Collins for the Liberals, all praised Curzon in Commons. The premier announced he would move a formal resolution of condolence Monday.

The Marquis Curzon, George Nathaniel Curzon, was born on January 11, 1859 at Kendleston, Derby, England, the son of the Rev. Alfred Nathaniel Holdon Curzon, fourth baron of Scarsdale. He was educated at Eton and Balliol College, Oxford.

In 1898 he became a baron and in 1911 he was made an earl. His last title, marquis, came in 1921. He was appointed under secretary for foreign affairs in 1895. In 1899 he was made viceroy and governor-general of India, which post he held until 1905.

During the war, he acted as president of the air board, in 1915 and 1916. In 1916 Lloyd George made him a member of the imperial war cabinet.

Bennett Embarks In New Business

T. A. Bennett, Well Known Grocer, Enters Into Insurance Business and Employment Agency—Sons Will Continue Grocery Business.

Thomas A. Bennett, the well-known grocer at 60-62 North Front street, senior member of the firm of Thomas A. Bennett & Sons, has entered into the insurance business and employment agency with offices at 290 Fair street. Mr. Bennett has been engaged in the grocery line for 48 years, a majority of the years in business for himself and has been successful in building up a fine patronage. His sons, Clifford T. and John A. Bennett, who have grown up to be experts in the buying and selling of groceries, meats, vegetables and produce, having been members of the firm with their father for a few years, will continue the business along the old successful lines that has made the Bennett store one of the best known establishments of its kind in Kingston.

Temperate in All Things, President Eliot's Rule

President Emeritus of Harvard, Celebrating Ninety-First Birthday, Gives Formula for Health and Activity—Uses Stimulants—Keeps Calm.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Cambridge, Mass., March 20.—Looking back over a fruitful life, Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard University, was visited by relatives and close friends today, his ninety-first birthday.

This is his health formula:

"I attribute my health and my long continued capacity for active experience to a sound constitution never impaired by serious disease or accident, a calm temperament, the habit of taking daily exercise, and a slight and never regular use of stimulants, like tea, coffee, alcohol and tobacco."

Headed by Professor Charles H. Grandgent, president of the Harvard Alumni Association, a delegation of associates visited the great educator to present to him a memorial volume containing photographs and copies of all the messages sent him upon his ninetieth birthday. Another flood of greetings came today.

Dr. Eliot, who recently directed disapproval vigorously upon the younger generation for its hasty divorces and certain lines of thinking, is serene about the future.

"Temperate expectance of good," he declares, "has been with me always."

The spirit of democracy was enunciated by the venerable chieftain in his latest utterance.

"It is a spirit of service," said Dr. Eliot, "not necessarily what we call public service, but a spirit of service in all the professions, both learned and scientific, including business; a desire, a firm purpose to be of use to one's felolws. For me, democracy means simply freedom for each individual to arrange his training and his life career so that he can do his best for the common welfare.

"There are some very important changes needed in American schools. I think it is fundamental that we have new methods of instruction, new methods of discipline, new methods of training. There is an all too common opinion that there is no useful training except in unattractive, repulsive training. This is the opposite of the truth for either children or adults. It has long dominated and a change is needed."

Award Winston Subway Contract

Winston & Company, Inc., are Low Bidders for Philadelphia Subway —Amount of Bid $16,750,000.

The local firm of Winston & Company, Inc., in association with Frederick L. Cranford and Charles H. Locher of New York, on Tuesday of this week submitted the low bid for constructing a portion of the Broad Street Subway of Philadelphia. This is the third and most expensive section undertaken by that city, involving an expenditure of $16,750,000, the amount of Winston's bid. It extends under the heart of the business section of Philadelphia and requires the underpinning of a number of large structures, including the U. G. I. building, the City Center building, and the Lyric Theatre, as well as the tracks of the Reading Railway.

Plan Triumvirate To Rule Italy

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, March 20.—Premier Mussolini of Italy, who has been ill for many weeks, is such a sick man that a triumvirate has been suggested to take over the government, it was learned from diplomatic sources today. The Fascist leader, ailing from a liver malady, is said to have developed a duodenal ulcer.

Home Minister Federzoni, Chancellor De Stefani, and Minister of Communication Cino have been suggested for the triumvirate. Minister Federzoni would be appointed premier ad interim.

Canal Terminals To Be Free Ports

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Balboa, Canal Zone, March 20.—Cristobal and Balboa, terminals of the Panama Canal, will become practically free ports under a plan announced today by the Panama Railroad Company. Effective April 1, the railroad will receive and store cargo subject to readjustment. No customs duties will be charged, only a fee for handling and storing.

Kuhlman Case Still Pending

As stated in a dispatch in The Freeman Thursday, Judge William Bondy in the United States District Court in New York ordered padlocks placed on the brewery of the Ebling Brewing Company in that city, and the New York Times this morning states that although this is the first brewery to be padlocked in New York, similar proceedings are pending against the Ringler Brewery and against the Kuhlman Brewery at Ellenville.

Federal Attorney Buckner after the decree padlocking the Ebling Brewery had been issued said: "The recommendations of the United States District Attorney for the rapid adjustment of this case are in line with the sound policy of extending leniency to those defendants who promptly surrender and save the time of our congested Federal Courts, which would otherwise be devoted to trial. The time actually occupied by the court in this instance was barely fifteen minutes."

Two hundred padlocks will be required to carry out the edict of the court in the Ebling case. A separate lock will be placed on each of the two outlets of the seventy-five vats. The remaining fifty locks will be required in other parts of the building.

Palmer Canfield, Federal prohibition director, was in court with Mr. Buckner, and it was said that the enforcement bureau and Mr. Buckner's office were acting in harmony.

Ringler Brewery Also Closed.

New York, March 20.—Another step in United States Attorney Emory Buckney's "padlock policy" was taken today when the George Ringler and Company brewery was ordered padlocked for a period of four months beginning April 1. This was the second large metropolitan brewery closed in two days.

King Tut's Curse Again Whispered

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, March 20.—"The curse of King Tut" was the whisper that ran through the galleries when illness again today upset the progress of the Dennistoun case. Sir Edward Marshall Hall, chief of counsel for Colonel Jan Dennistoun, in his defense against his former wife's suit for $6,000, was taken suddenly ill during the night.

Lord Carnarvon, discoverer of the tomb of King Tut-Ankh-Amen, died of a mysterious malady contracted while exploring the ancient Egyptian burial chambers. His widow married Colonel Dennistoun after he was divorced by Mrs. Dorothy Dennistoun.

Sir Edwards burst a varicose vein and will be unable to participate further in the case.

Neither Colonel Dennistoun nor Lady Carnarvon appeared in court today, both being worn with the strain of testifying.

Mrs. Dennistoun, although appearing fatigued, took the stand again, and testified briefly about some dresses she bought.

When the defense announced it had completed its evidence, the judge said he would submit two questions to the jury:

1. Was an agreement made between Colonel and Mrs. Dennistoun?
2. If it was made what did it mean?

Mrs. Dennistoun contended that her former husband owed her money on an alimony agreement, as well as for loans.

Norman Birkett started summing up for the defense. He argued that the alleged agreement of Dennistoun to pay alimony was not a legal contract, as it was too vague.

Fire Destroyed Hamm's Garage

Fire of unknown origin at 2:30 o'clock this morning destroyed the two car garage and loft of Oliver Hamm & Son, in the rear of their upholstery shop at 267 Hasbrouck avenue. The building was of frame construction. The lower floor was used to house two automobiles owned by Joseph Smith and Mr. Dubois. In the loft above was stored some old furniture. The building and contents were destroyed. Some insurance was carried. An alarm of fire was turned in from Box 53, Hasbrouck avenue and East Chester street, to which the fire department responded. When the firemen arrived the entire building was in flames. Mr. Smith informed Fire Chief Murphy that he had parked his car in the garage about 1 o'clock and at that time everything was apparently all right. It was an hour and a half later that the discovery was made. An adjoining garage, owned by the Hamms, and the upholstery shop were not damaged by the flames. The cars destroyed were an Overland and a Ford.

Wants Bigger Aerial Fleet.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, March 20.—Brig. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chief of the army air service, today urged that the army air fleet be increased to 2,000 planes, to comply with the standards reached by other nations. General Patrick, head of the Secret war department stated today.

Expect Adoption Of Crossings Plan By Legislature

Four Republican Senators Said to Favor Smith's Grade Crossing Proposal—Speaker McGinnies Will Not Oppose Adoption in Lower House.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, N. Y., March 20.—There was every indication today Governor Smith's proposed $300,000,000 bond issue for the elimination of grade crossings will be adopted by the legislature during the closing days of the session.

Four Republican senators, Mastick and Westall of Westchester and Nicoll and Karle of New York, are understood to favor the governor's plan. The votes of these four would insure adoption of the proposal in the upper house.

Speaker McGinnies, Republican leader of the assembly, intimated today that he would not oppose adoption of the proposal in the lower house.

George K. Morris, Republican state chairman, is reported to have told the governor he would use his influence with the Republican members of both houses to have the proposal adopted. If approved at the present session the governor's plan can be submitted to the voters at the election this fall. It was adopted by the legislature of 1924. "I don't know of any county more interested in grade crossing elimination than Westchester and I intend to talk on that subject when I address the Westchester Chamber of Commerce at the Biltmore tonight," the Governor's address tonight will be broadcast.

The governor's grade crossing proposal was rejected as "unworkable" in the report of the joint executive grade crossing committee which submitted its report to the lawmakers on Wednesday.

The Governor's proposal was adopted by the Legislature last year and if it were approved again this year it could be submitted to the voters at the election this fall. Under it, the railroads would pay 50 per cent of the cost of eliminating the crossings, the state 25 per cent and the locality 25 per cent.

Speaker McGinnies, Republican leader of the lower house is not so strongly opposed to the plan as Senator Knight, Republican leader of the upper house, and Senator Hewitt, chairman of the finance committee. While the speaker said he doubted if the plan would work out the way the Governor had pictured it, he intimated he would not oppose its adoption by the house again this year.

The proposed bond issue was adopted without a dissenting vote in both houses of the Legislature last year.

The special committee which investigated grade crossings was created under a resolution sponsored by Assemblyman Davison, Republican of Nassau. At the time the resolution was introduced, the Democratic leaders in both houses charged that its real purpose was to delay favorable action on the Governor's plan.

Governor Smith feels that if he can win three or four Republican senators to his side in the next few days, his proposal will be adopted. Senator Karle, Republican of Queens is understood to have told the executive he would vote for the proposal.

Air Trips Soon at 15 Cents a Mile

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, March 20.—Boston to Minneapolis and St. Paul by airplane, with sleeping car comforts in 14 hours and at a cost of about 15 cents a mile for the 1,400 mile journey, is in immediate prospect, it was announced today by Colonel Harold E. Hartney, vice president of the General Airways System. Freight also could be carried.

Stops would be made at New York, Buffalo, Detroit and Chicago, Colonel Hartney said. The planes would be leased from a group of Russians headed by Igor I. Sikorsky. The Sikorsky plane was said to be an innovation in flying craft and one which would obviate forced landings.

Bankers were said to have contracted to invest $1,000,000 in the enterprise.

COMPLETE ARRANGEMENTS FOR HOLY NAME DANCE

About two hundred members were present at the special meeting of the St. Mary's School Holy Name Society, held at St. Mary's School Hall Thursday evening. Arrangements were completed for the old fashioned dance to be held on April 16. Five hundred tickets were distributed among the members. Those wishing to obtain tickets may do so by calling at the home of George A. Jordan, secretary, 46 Meadow street.

The committees having this affair in their charge will meet on Thursday evening, March 26, at St. Mary's School Hall, at 7 o'clock.

WORKERS GIVEN ROUGH TIME BY HUSKY GHOST

Rocks Hurled Into Room From Nowhere and Man Dragged by Leg.

Danville, Ky.—Residents in the outskirts of Washington county, not many miles from here, are wrought up over tales of a haunted house, following the experience of a crew of bridge builders, who spent one night in an old deserted structure in the neighborhood.

Hansford Evans of Mitchellsburg went into a remote region of Washington county with a crew of men to repair bridges. Boarding houses in the vicinity were not to be had, so Evans leased the abandoned house for his men in spite of current reports that it was haunted.

Locked All Doors.

After the first day's work, the story goes, the workmen went to the house for the night. Mindful of the stories about "ha'nts" they locked all doors and windows, imagining they had effectually barred spooks and went to sleep in a room on the ground floor.

Everything was peaceful until midnight. Then the men were awakened by the crashing of heavy stones on the floor. They were badly frightened, but after a whispered consultation decided to stay until daybreak.

Then something clutched one of G. W. Leffew's feet and dragged him about the room, despite his struggles. Finally the unseen hand let go and Leffew, considerably shaken, returned to his sleeping place.

The other occupants of the room, more alarmed by Leffew's experience, still were determined not to be driven from the house and stayed until daylight. Then they found 23 stones scattered about the floor, which had been bare the night before. Though the noise of the stones pounding on the floor had been sufficient to awaken every man in the room, there wasn't even a scratch to show where the stones had fallen.

Reward Goes Begging.

Careful inspection of the house showed all doors and windows still locked and no apparent means of entrance for the stones.

Mitchellsburg reports say a number of citizens are offering $10 reward for anyone who will stay a night in the house, without takers. The bridge builders want it distinctly understood that one night was enough for them and that no mere $10 could tempt them to pass another night in the house.

Wife Charges Husband Auctioned Her Kisses

New Bedford, Mass.—After hearing tales of unusual cruelty from her husband, as related on the witness stand by Mrs. Lacra De Gagner, these including the auctioning of her kisses among his men friends at $1 each just after their honeymoon, the jury in the $15,000 alienation of affections suit of Louis F. De Gagner against Albert Clerc returned a verdict of $1,000 damages.

"Almost before our honeymoon was over," declared Mrs. De Gagner, "my husband auctioned off my kisses to his friends at $1 apiece. My fifteen years of married life with Louis were made up of a series of cruelties.

"And I was in constant fear for my life. It was this fear which made me encourage Albert Clerc to make love to me when my husband demanded it."

Auto Crash Fails to Stop Wedding of Injured Bride

Louisville.—Their clothing bloodstained from a motor crash earlier in the day at Edinburg, Ind., Ben B. Pressly, forty years old, and Mrs. Nona Huntley, thirty-seven years old, both of Indianapolis, were married here while Mrs. Barnard Martin, daughter of the bride, peered through her bandages to witness the ceremony.

A show bank at Edinburg caused their automobile to collide with a telephone pole, but the bridegroom said, "we had planned to marry in Louisville and we let no obstacle prevent it."

Four stitches were taken in the bride's jaw before the journey was resumed. Mrs. Martin accompanied the couple. The three returned to Edinburg after the ceremony to arrange repairs for the wrecked machine.

SLEEPS IN FURNACE, BURNED TO DEATH

Boy Caught in Fires Turned on at Daylight.

Louisville.—Albert Lee Greaver, a twelve-year-old boy, was so severely burned in a blast furnace of the National Forge company here that he died a few hours later.

His parents and a negro janitor at the plant are unable to explain how the youth happened to be inside the furnace, which is used for melting iron.

The negro janitor, John Jones, fifty, lighted the furnace at 6:20 in the morning, he told officials of the company. A ball of fire leaped from the flaming interior a moment afterward, he said.

Flames flared up and filled the entire interior of the furnace, according to the janitor's version. Jones said he walked away and then heard a scream. He turned and the boy, a flaming torch, jumped from the opening.

The nearest object at hand was a bucket of old rags, which the janitor seized in his attempt to smother the flames. He called for help and another employee hurriedly responded, notifying the police. The boy's clothes were burnt off and his hands, face and body were severely scorched.

Albert was unconscious for several hours. He talked to his mother a short time during a lucid interval and said he went into the room last night and lay down besides the furnace. He fell asleep and when he awakened his clothes were on fire.

"Don't cry mother," the youth called.

The furnace door through which Albert escaped is about two feet high and four and a half feet wide.

About a year ago the boy remained away from home all night while a carnival was showing in the city, and two or three times had spent the night in the family automobile in front of the house, the mother said.

"Harmless" Ant Bear Hugs Hunter to Death

Buenos Aires.—How a hunter fought a fierce body-to-body battle with a South American ant bear, reputed to be an inoffensive animal, and was fatally injured, is told in a report from the village of Avia Terai in the Argentine Chaco.

The tragedy took place in a dense forest surrounding the village, the victim, Candido Martinez, fifty, having encountered the bear while separated from his hunting companion. The latter heard his cries for help, the barking of his dogs and several shots, and found Martinez on the ground, his flesh terribly torn in several places and his ribs crushed. He had only time before he died to tell that he had been attacked by an ant bear.

Instances of an ant bear attacking a man are very rare. Ant bears are known to kill the jaguar, when attacked by it, by crushing it between its powerful forelegs and chest, but its main interest in life is eating ants, destroying their hills with its long fox-like snout. For this reason it is regarded by settlers as a useful animal.

It is thought in this instance the bear was attacked by the dogs and turned at bay, attacking the man when he tried to save the dogs.

Woman Finds Stranger Is Missing Husband

New Concord, Ohio.—After eleven months' absence Andrew Gibson, eccentric farmer, and his wife have been reunited by a queer turn of fate.

Gibson, while living on a southern Illinois farm, left one morning for Cairo, Ill., on a shopping tour. He disappeared. Eleven months later his wife, who had come here to visit relatives, was riding on the Marietta-Cambridge road in an automobile.

The driver of the car stopped and picked up a stranger who was walking. Mrs. Gibson instantly recognized the man as her husband, and the husband recognized wife.

His memory, which had been temporarily lost, was restored, but he was unable to recall what had transpired since he left his Illinois home.

Mr. and Mrs. Gibson rented a farm and moved near here. The other night as the couple retired, Mrs. Gibson said she noticed her husband brought a revolver to bed. She fled to a neighbor's home and the Guernsey county sheriff was called.

Brave 70-Mile Trip in Gale to Be Married

Bowling Green, Ky.—A gale out of the north, sweeping the icy waters of a swift river current against the sides of a small craft, the thermometer registering far below the freezing point and going lower each hour, did not deter Willis Christian and Miss Ola Davis from marrying. The young couple came here from their rural homes, traveling 35 miles on the river in an open gasoline launch to keep their tryst with Cupid.

They were forced to travel most of the day to reach here late in the afternoon. Almost frozen, they were married by Rev. E. B. Hosse. Then they made their way back to the ship where they boarded their launch and set out on the 35-mile trip back home.

Christian looked after the engine while his bride on both trips watched to see that the small craft kept a straightaway line. The bridegroom is a blacksmith.

NO TITLES FOR AFRICA.

Titles of nobility are still sought by men of wealth or achievement in Great Britain, and this is supposed to be true also of the great British dominions. It is surprising to learn, therefore, that an address to the throne, adopted by both branches of the Parliament of the South African Union, prays King George to refrain hereafter from conferring titles of any sort on his subjects in the South African dominions. MacDonald's Labor Government would doubtless have given this address of the democrats in control in South Africa the attention it deserves, but it is thought that the Conservative Government will ignore a remarkable request so out of harmony with royalty's shrewd policy of binding to itself and to aristocracy the chief men of great wealth and most distinguished ability.

It is a curious fact that this policy is not only steadily pursued in the British empire but is indirectly operative in the United States, from which titled aristocracy as an institution frequently draws substantial gain. Although our Constitution forbids the granting of titles of nobility, such titles are nevertheless desired by a class of our citizens, and so British aristocracy strengthens itself more and more through alliances with the American "dollararchy." Republican America helps to finance British titles through inter-marriages between British lords and American heiresses, the more wealth is concentrated in this country the greater being the desire to erect social barriers in the only effective way. Strange as it may seem, there are now more real allies of the British aristocracy in Republican America than there would appear to be in all the British dominions of South Africa.

CHAPLIN'S COMPLAINT.

Although Charlie Chaplin was born in England, he is a tax-paying American millionaire, and although he is such a substantial citizen, with all the rights of one, he can not keep his aged mother in this country. The news comes from Hollywood that the immigration authorities refuse to reconsider their decision ordering Mrs. Hannah Chaplin out of the country by March 26. As a result of many years of hardship, before her talented son began to delight movie fans, the venerable Mrs. Chaplin is reported to be mentally ill. Technically this calls for her deportation, but what the law really aims to prevent, is the bringing in of persons of this and other classes to become a public charge—a possibility which in this case is rendered more than remote by the existence of Charlie Chaplin's wealth.

It is said that the famed movie star will appeal in behalf of his mother directly to the President, and if in this new undertaking he displays his usual versatility he may serve the public as well as his own family. It is well for public attention to be focussed on a law which in this case seems cruel as well as absurd. Though it is not a part of President Coolidge's policy to take any decisive position or make any recommendation when not compelled by the circumstances to do so, surely Charlie Chaplin may count on his personal sympathy. This interesting case illustrates both the difficulty of constructing a law which may be universally applied without injustice in any instance, and the difficulty of departure from the letter of the law to meet the reasonable demands of special cases not foreseen when the law was enacted.

New York has followed London's lead in establishing an orchestra of women, to be called the Women's Orchestra of America, with Mrs. Kuyper, a native of Holland and resident musician of New York, as its leader. For some time past she has had 25 players rehearsing regularly as a nucleus, for the orchestra which is expected to have sixty members, and is said to be receiving the cordial support of many music lovers. Perhaps neither the Women's Symphony Orchestra of America nor the similar organization in London is altogether as new a development as might be supposed, for there is a passage in the Diary of Samuel Pepys relating that at the Globe Theater, London, in June, 1661, he saw "a woman with a rod in her hand, keeping time to the musique while it plays, which is simple, methinks."

Col. Nicolai, chief of the German intelligence department during the war, has given further expression in a published work to the surprise of his countrymen when it was found that the Irish prisoners sided with Great Britain against Germany. Yet it might have been remembered—although the illustration is not altogether applicable—that family quarrels are forgotten in the presence of an attack from the outside.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M. D.

TUMOR.

Then he learns that some of these lumps are innocent things, and do no harm, and others are "guilty" of serious disturbances and death. The innocent tumors are made up of the same tissue in which they grow, that is a fat tumor, or a bone tumor, and so forth.

It is usually painless, grows slowly, and doesn't break into the adjoining tissues. Once removed there is no further trouble.

The serious or malignant tumor is made up of the tissues from which it originates, and other tissue also. It usually makes its way into nearby tissue.

It is painful, grows rapidly, and portions of it are deposited in other parts of the body.

If removed early there is usually no further trouble, but delay in removing it, gives an opportunity for these deposits to start trouble.

Of course the tumor which is baffling the scientific world today is cancer, which is a tumor or lump that grows on "surface" tissue. This surface tissue may be the skin, the tongue, the surface lining of the intestine, or the surface of any gland or little tube anywhere in the body.

Now although there is no cure as yet known for cancer, the early removal by the knife is saving thousands of lives. And the fortunate points about this is, that about four out of every five of these cancers are found where they can be reached by surgery. In other words if they are discovered in time, four out of every five could be removed, and the patient's life saved.

Now what is my point?

When we remember that about one death in ten after the age of thirty-five is due to cancer, then there is no sense in shutting our eyes to the dangers of neglecting "lumps."

Surgeons have been able to remove tumors from every part of the body, the chest, the intestine, the lungs, and even from the brain itself. No one likes the idea of surgery, but until some one finds some other method of removal, we should be thankful to surgery for the saving of so many lives.

Monarch Among Devils

In Jewish devil lore Asmodeus is the demon of vanity and dress, whom some have identified with Beelzebub and Azrael. He is called in the Talmud, "the king of devils." In the book of Tobit, he is in love with Sarah, the daughter of Raguel, and destroys her seven husbands in succession, each on his wedding night. When Sarah married Tobit, Asmodeus was driven by a charm into Egypt. Asmodeus has been given a leading place in literature in Le Sage's novel "The Devil on Two Sticks."—Kansas City Star.

Make War on Pests

The famous old fire-grate in front of which Thomas Newcomen (1663-1729) was sitting when the steam escaping through the lid of the boiling tea kettle gave him the idea for the first piston engine was sold at Dartmouth, England, his birthplace. It was a model by Newcomen which aided James Watt in his more successful development of the steam engine.

THE AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

1927 CONVENTION MAY GO TO PARIS

Authorization by the national executive committee to National Commander James A. Drain of the American Legion to appoint a France convention travel committee has given impetus to a movement to hold the 1927 convention of the Legion in Paris.

Commander Drain had suggested that the year 1927 would be very suitable to hold the convention in France. That year marks the tenth anniversary of America's entry into the World war and also of the landing on French soil of the first units of the A. E. F. It had previously been suggested that the 1928 convention be held in Paris. Final decision rests with the national convention.

The national executive committee at the same time selected October 5 to 9 as the dates for the seventh annual national convention of the Legion, which will be held in Omaha, Neb. Selection of the dates had been left to the executive committee by the St. Paul convention.

Preliminary plans for the Omaha convention are far advanced, according to Samuel Reynolds, chairman of the national convention work committee, who reported to the executive committee. He said that among the features of the convention will be a gigantic electrical parade staged by Ak-Sar-Ben, a Nebraska organization. Contests already decided on are: Band, drum and bugle corps and men's glee club contests, trap and pistol shoots and competition between drill teams of the auxiliary.

National standing committees of the Legion have been nominated by Commander Drain and confirmed by the national executive committee. Chairmen of the committees are:

Rehabilitation, Watson B. Miller, Washington; child welfare, Mark T. McKee, Detroit, Mich.; Americanism commission, E. K. Bixby, Muskogee, Okla.; foreign committee on Americanism, Harry W. Berdie, Tampico, Mex.; legislative, O. L. Bodenhamer, El Dorado, Ark.; finance, Wilder S. Metcalf Lawrence, Kan.; naval affairs, E. E Spafford, New York city; military affairs, George E. Leach, Minneapolis, Minn.; aeronautics, Reed Landis, Chicago; foreign relations commission, H. Nelson Jackson, Burlington, Vt.; distinguished guests, Alton T. Roberts, Marquette, Mich.; trustees Overseas Graves Decoration trust, Milton J Foreman, Chicago; oriental, Thomas Swale, Seattle, Wash.; world peace, Thomas Amory Lee, Topeka, Kan.; trophies and awards, Asa Candler, Atlanta, Ga.; revocation of post charters, J. Robert Reichardt, Fort Smith, Ark.; national convention work, Samuel Reynolds, Omaha, Neb.; source records, A. Eugene Pattison, New Jersey.

THE LEGION

AUTHOR WOOLLEY, nationally known speaker, is extolling the American Legion in a series of addresses throughout the country. Speaking at Ogden, Utah, recently he said:

"The American Legion is one of the greatest organizations in the country and the most select fraternity in the world. The President of the United States in his message to congress recommends that congress be guided by the American Legion in all matters concerning the ex-service men. . . . Every piece of legislation beneficial to the ex-service men was sponsored and pushed by the Legion. . . . In the minds of those who formed the American Legion were the ties of friendship, the spirit of service in the hour of need, the love of country and a feeling of patriotism. . . . The Legion will keep alive the memories of the great war and thus remove the inevitableness of war. . . . By not forgetting the horrors of the last war, we can avoid future wars."

Forests Advocated as Memorials to Heroes

National "memory forests" as the most enduring and practical memorials the nation can dedicate to its dead of the World war were advocated by P. O. Anderson, state agriculturist, in an address.

Mr. Anderson, a World war veteran and a member of the American Legion, declared:

"We of the American Legion were able to get first-hand information regarding what provision the older countries have made regarding their timber supply. Europe has commercial forests. A timber shortage is inevitable in this country unless reforestation is done widely—why not memory forests which will perpetuate the memory of our boys enduringly . . .

The American Legion, both in national and state conventions, has pledged itself to a program of conservation and reforestation.

NOT NUGGET BUT ONION STARTED FIRST GOLD RUSH

Finding of Bit of Ore on Plant Responsible for Stories Which Sent Crowds to California.

Los Angeles.—Recent reports that the original first nugget of California gold was in the possession of a private collector in New York have aroused chroniclers of Southern California's history to remind the public that it was an onion, not Sutter's mill, that started the first California gold rush.

Moreover, these chroniclers relate, that onion grew in the San Fernando valley northwest of here, hundreds of miles south of Sutter's mill, and the gold rush it started began in 1841, seven years before James Marshall's discovery of gold in El Dorado county.

It was on March 9, 1841, that Francisco Lopez was riding through San Feliciano canyon with a companion and stopped to eat lunch under a tree. Lopez liked onions, and when he saw a wild one growing within arm's reach he leaned over to dig it up with his knife and add it to his meal. Clinging to the roots of that onion were several small pieces of gold.

Soon the rush was on. As far north as Santa Barbara and as far south as San Diego the news of the gold strike spread. In a few weeks hundreds of men were sifting the sands of the canyon for gold, and some were finding it in profitable quantities.

Hostilities between the United States and Mexico interrupted the placer mining, and when, in 1855, mining activities were resumed in the San Fernando field, the later but greater gold rush started by the discovery of nuggets at Sutter's mill in the North was in full swing.

Estimates of the amount of gold taken out of the San Fernando placers vary widely, but such data as are available indicate that more than $5,000,000 in placer gold has been shipped out of Los Angeles county since Lopez's onion revealed the existence of the metal here.

Nevada Aims to Own Ruins Recently Found

Reno, Nev.—The recently discovered ancient cliff dweller city, sometimes referred to as Pueblo Grande de Nevada, located along the banks of the Virgin river in southern Nevada, is largely on federal land, and, in the opinion of Gov. James Scrougham, should become the property of the state.

Two or more thousands of years ago, exploration has developed, people, thought to be the ancestors of the Pueblo Indians of today, established the city, which, after reaching a high stage of development, was allowed to go to ruin, and in time became buried under sand and debris so that hardly a trace of it remained until recent discoveries.

What is believed an irrigation system has been found, and from this it is presumed the city's inhabitants were agriculturists and made the desert bloom in much the same manner as it does today in certain sections of the West.

Archeological investigation is expected to go forward rapidly this summer. Many mummies and much pottery from the ruins are now being studied.

His Mighty Fall

A North side matron has lost one of her worries, the Detroit News relates. The day before the first real snow she dropped a flatiron she was taking to a neighbor. It broke the concrete of the driveway, a long jagged crack. Her heart has been in her mouth since for fear her husband would find it. With the first thaw the other night, she lost hope. When she heard friend husband bouncing in all excited she knew he had found it. "Say!" he yelled, "say—remember that day I fell on the ice in the driveway? Well just you come out and see what I did—cracked the blamed concrete. S'wonder I didn't kill myself 'n' you just stood there 'n' laughed. Fact is, I didn't realize myself how hard I fell."

Fiume, Land of Sentimentalism

Dr. Roselli of Vassar College Gives Interesting Lecture, Last of Series Under Auspices of the Junior League.

The last lecture of the course being given by Dr Roselli of Vassar College under the patronage of the Junior League occurred on Wednesday afternoon in the chapel of the First Reformed Church, the subject being "Fiume."

Dr. Roselli said the problem of Fiume had been a very difficult one, which it was well to know was now quite happily settled in a semi-legal way by means of a compromise, for the people themselves had 'blown into the fire' frequently, making the problem all the harder of solution. He excused them on the ground that St Vitus was their patron saint, and also paid genuine tribute to the behavior of the French Colonial troops and to the wise diplomacy of the French in the trying situation.

Dr. Roselli spoke of the many complications of the Austria-Hungarian, Italian and Jugo-Slovician interests in Fiume, and of Fiume's own interests. He said it was hard for people in America to realize that to a little city of 50,000 inhabitants its own historic and sentimental background seemed so much worth while as to give it the right to demand the privilege of self-determination, while Americans would look at the matter in the light of its economic possibilities.

Because Austria-Hungary had before the war allowed Fiume to retain the Italian language as opposed to the ruling of the Allied forces later, Fiume counted its bad enemy better in some ways than its good allies. While the independence of Fiume was not included in the Treaty of London, still at that time no one dreamed that Austria-Hungary would die and that therefore there would have to be some special dispensation for Fiume. It seemed as though all countries trying to help out in the Fiume problem of self-determination had blundered and that even nature blundered when the river of Fiume—in fact that is what the name means—was given outlet through a delta.

Dr. Roselli told of the part that D'Annunzio had played in the settling of the problem and also of Mussolini's part. The paradoxical situation existed of the big Italian flag flying over the royal palace, given by Fiume to Italy for the housing of its embassy while Fiume considered itself a free state, and also of the troops wearing the regular Italian uniform made national by the addition of bits of color of the Fiume state. Through all of the turmoil of so small a state standing out for its freedom and right of individual existance against practically the whole world, showing a spirit of idealism, even life itself was counted as not all of living. In fact it was this spirit of idealism on the part of the Italians that was maintaining the staunchness of this little state.

As the matter now stands, the strange arrangement has been made of allowing Jugo-Slovacia the use of the delta of the Fiume as its seaport, also for Dalmatia, while the Free State of Fiume is what might be termed "Italio-Italian," with one kind of Italians protecting the little canal that gives seaport advantages to Fiume on the one side and another protecting the other side of the same narrow canal.

Today the problem is being worked out through the Italian idealism that calls for quality rather than quantity, and Italy is saying to the people of Fiume, "if you cannot continue living in Fiume, come over into Italy, for we will find room for you." Along such idealistic lines and in a spirit that places a right value on love, Dr. Roselli left Fiume for the present.

At the close of the lecture the members of the Junior League invited those present to stay for a cup of tea and to meet Dr. Roselli, and a delightful social hour followed.

Kiwanis Club Weekly Luncheon

At the weekly meeting of the Kiwanis Club held Thursday, the members listened to a very interesting and instructive address on "Women Criminals," given by Miss Ione DeVaney, formerly parole officer of the Bedford Hills Reformatory. Miss Jennie C. Fisher, of the Home Bureau, was also a speaker at this week's Kiwanis luncheon. Miss Fisher outlined the program of the milk campaign about to be started in this city.

Loves to Give

LEONARD SCHEPP

Leonard Schepp eighty four years old, of New York, America's "Cocoanut King," has started to give away his personal fortune of $2,500,000 handing $22,900 in one day to employes of his office. These gifts ran from $500 to $5,000. The bulk of his fortune will be used for building a home for boys between thirteen and eighteen, where they can be trained for a life of usefulness.

League Meeting At Stone Ridge.

The regular monthly meeting of the Ulster County Sub-District of the Dairymen's League will be held at Stone Ridge, in the Grange Hall, on Saturday, March 28, at 7:30 p. m. As this meeting is held immediately after the monthly directors' meeting, information of the latest developments of the League will be given.

Today We Celebrate

PHILISTES.

Philistes was an ancient queen, whose coin is still extant, but of whose life, reign, country and government nothing can be ascertained. Herodutus speaks of her coin, so she must have flourished before he lived, that is B. C. 437, but he says nothing else of her. Some persons think that she was queen of Sicily, others of Malta or Cossara.

PROHIBITION.

The author of the first state-wide prohibition law to be adopted in the United States was Neal Dow, who was born in Portland, Maine, 121 years ago today. He formulated and was the chief advocate of the famous "Maine law," which was adopted by the legislature of his native state in 1851, and by which the manufacture and sale of alcoholic beverages was prohibited.

Neal Dow was an earnest advocate of temperance from his youth, and until his death in 1897 he was the leader in the prohibition movement in America, and aided, also, in its promotion in other parts of the world. He was Prohibition candidate for president of the United States in 1880. He fought throughout the Civil War and was a brigadier of volunteers at the close of the conflict.

BIRTHDAY OF THE G. O. P.

Four men met in a school house at Ripon, Wisconsin, seventy-one years ago today and launched the Republican party. Other communities have disputed with Ripon the honor of being the birthplace of the party, but there is every reason to believe that "the four men of Ripon" were the charter members of the G. O. P. As with many other great political organizations, in its origin the Republican party was an amalgamation of little parties and factions, which, in the course of two decades, had been split from the Democratic and the Whig parties by the slavery question. These included the American party, the Free Soil party, a contingent of Whigs which included Abraham Lincoln, Horace Greeley and William Seward, and a body of Democrats, including William Cullen Bryant, Hannibal Hamlin, Simeon Cameron and Gideon Wells. These factions were united in the purpose to prevent the further extension of slavery, otherwise had little in common, this sentiment being crystalized by the Kansas-Nebraska bill of 1854. The name "Republican," while used by the followers of Jefferson in the early days of the republic, had long fallen into disuse, when it was revived by the conference in 1854. Michigan claims to be the birthplace of the party because the first state convention was held at Kackson, Mich., on July 6, 1854, the call for that gathering having been signed by 10,000 persons. The first national convention of the Republican party was held in Philadelphia in 1856, when John C. Fremont of California, a Free Soiler, was nominated for the presidency. The slogan in that campaign was "Free-Soil-free-Speech, freeman-Fremont." Although defeated in the presidential race the party elected 92 congressmen and laid the foundation for their success in the next election, when Abraham Lincoln was the standard bearer of the party.

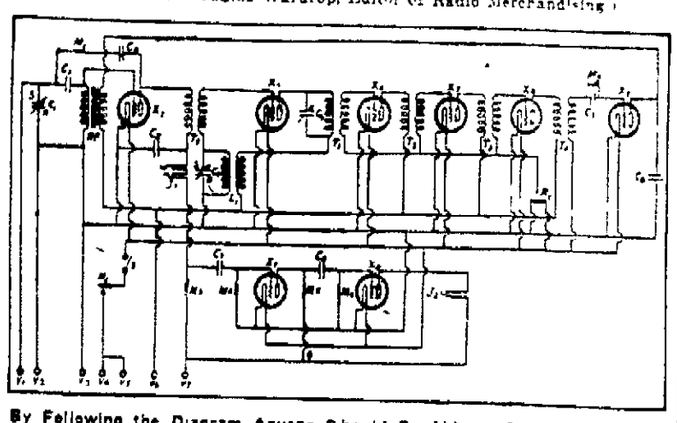
RADIO

Edited by G Douglas Wardrop, Editor of Radio Merchandising



By Following the Diagram Anyone Should Be Able to Correctly Assemble This Set.

By R. B. WILDER.

One fact stands out clearly among the things that we can predict for the future of radio. Either the type of receiving sets in use must radically change or the fans must learn how to operate their sets in such a manner so as not to create interference with surrounding receivers.

To listen in some evening in the crowded residential districts of any large city you will be amazed at what you hear. Squeals and howls surround the location of every distant station. Either the squeals must go or the enjoyment and pleasure of listening to distant stations will be taken from all of us.

Most of the blame for this condition has been foisted upon the owners of regenerative receivers. If the truth were known, the improperly neutralized neutrodyne and poorly balanced superheterodynes are causing more trouble than regenerative sets. At the same time, their owners are in the happy frame of mind that their receivers cannot possibly be the cause of any disturbance.

For the good of the whole future of radio, it behooves each and every one of us to tune our sets with consideration for others or else build sets that cannot cause interference even if improperly handled. A great many superheterodyne receivers can be classed among the worst offenders and the worst squealers.

Interference Is Obviated.

A new type of super heterodyne, as devised by Laurence M. Cockaday, positively will not radiate energy and interference with other receiving sets. In addition, the receiver effects the saving of two tubes and will be capable of bringing in stations with loud speaker volume from distances up to 1,500 miles with a loop aerial.

The first tube amplifies the current at radio frequency and also performs double duty by again amplifying the current at audio frequency. This tube stops the feeding of energy back into the loop and makes the receiver non-radiating.

The second tube acts as both a detector and a heterodyne oscillator, thereby dispensing with another tube. The next three tubes are intermediate frequency amplifiers that operate on approximately 2,200 meters. The next tube is a detector, the output of which is reflexed back into the first tube.

The stages of resistance coupled audio frequency amplification are used to increase the volume. The use of resistance amplification eliminates considerable distortion and gives the receiver a remarkable tone quality.

Two dials are used in tuning the receiver, the settings of one closely following the other. This makes for simple tuning and positive logging of stations. While at first glance this may seem to be a complicated receiver, by following wiring diagram anyone who has had even a limited experience in construction of radio receivers should be able to correctly assemble the set.

To construct the receiver you will need the following apparatus:

Material You Will Need.

C 2 .001 mfd low-loss variable condenser.
C 3 .0005 mfd variable grid condenser.
C 3 and 4 .0001 mfd. fixed mica condensers.
C 5, 6, 7 and 8 .006 mfd. fixed condensers.
C 9 .00025 mfd fixed grid condenser with grid leak mounting.
T 1 super-heterodyne input transformer.
T 2, 3 and 4 intermediate radio frequency transformers.
L 1 precision autodyne coupler.
A F medium radio audio frequency transformer.
X 1 standard vacuum tube socket.
X 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8 standard vacuum tube sockets.
J 1 and 2 double and single circuit telephone jacks, respectively.
R 1 2-ohm rheostat.
R 2 potentiometer, 400 ohms.
M 1 ½-megohm grid leak.
M 2 5 megohm grid leak.
M 3 .005 megohm resistor.
M 4 ½ megohm resistor.
M 5 and M 6 ¼ megohm resistors.
T 5 radio frequency transformer, 200 to 600 meters.
S filament battery switch.
V 1 and 2 loop binding posts.
V 3 negative A battery.
V 4 positive A battery.
V 5 negative B battery.
V 6 positive 65-volt tap on B battery.
V 7 positive 135 volt B battery.

The seven binding posts are necessary for the loop and battery connections. These should be mounted on a bakelite or hard rubber binding-post strip and supported to the baseboard by means of small brass brackets. The receivers can be assembled on a panel 7 by 24 inches with a baseboard 9½ by 22¾ by 1½ inches.

Use With Spiral Loop.

The receiver should be used with a spiral-type loop which will cover the broadcast range when tuned with a .0005 variable condenser. UV 201 A or C 301 A types should be used throughout and it is suggested that you try shifting the tubes around in the sockets to find the arrangement that works best.

Turn the loop aerial in the direction of the stations you wish to receive and slowly move both condenser dials over the scale until the signal from a station is picked up. Increase the settings of the potentiometer and the variable grid condenser until maximum signal strength is received.

Filament Control Jack Saves Overloading Tubes

By H. S. DOLESKI

The illustration shows a filament control jack for two tubes. I experienced a blown tube when turning out the second tube. To guard against any further trouble of the same kind I devised the control arrangement with a resistance as shown. To balance the resistance, first turn on both tubes and adjust the maximum volume, then plug in the first tube only and adjust the resistance for the best volume. Do not touch the rheostats. With this arrangement no tube will be overloaded with either plug in use.—Radio Digest.

Loop Antenna

The directional properties of a loop are spoiled by the presence of magnetic materials situated near it. The steel framework of a building has a detrimental effect on the directional of a loop. These buildings have the characteristics of casting shadows across the loop, aside from destroying the directional properties. This condition is particularly true of a garage loop. It is wise to keep the loop away from metal stairways and radiators.

Amplifying Transformer Very Important Factor

The scientist looking through a microscope gazes upon a fascinating world of cell and germ life so tiny as to be invisible to the naked eye. The microscope magnifies them. Likewise the amplifying transformer magnifies or amplifies faint sounds to clear, distinct volume so that a whole roomful of people can hear them on a loud speaker.

But it is very important that the amplifying transformer does not distort the sounds at the same time it increases the volume. A transformer that distorts is like a microscope that blurs the vision. The amplifying transformer not only increases the volume but must also give it exactly the original sound quality in tone and quality, loud and clear in volume.

The amplifying transformer is a very important factor in good reception. It is through good transformers that amplification without distortion can be secured. Without a good transformer no set, whatever else it may have or how elaborate the case containing it, can give satisfactory results.—New York World.

The strong cheerful color on the walls in this hallway makes them dominate the distracting influence of the various openings and vistas.

By A. LOUISE FILLEBROWN

Is it possible to make a small entrance hall anything but a patchwork quilt? It is filled with doors and openings in every direction; the lines are conflicting, and the staircase adds still another motif. Yet you must have a small console table for mail, cards, etc.; a chair for the waiting messenger or delivery boy, and a place to hang up wraps. How shall we go about making this hall harmonious?

We have put on the walls of the above illustration a delightful open wallpaper. It is possibly striking in color and line, but the effect is charming, the colors harmonious and the whole hallway made a unit. This is because this wallpaper was designed by an artist who understands how to obtain the proper results from color and line. The strong cheerful color on the walls makes them dominate the room sufficiently to absorb the distracting influence of the various openings and vistas. The strength of the design absorbs the conflicting lines of these same openings and the furniture.

Leading decorators everywhere are seeking the answer to just such problems, with the result that they are rapidly turning from the use of plain, cold walls, and adopting in their place well chosen color and design.

The decorator should follow the color lead of the paper in the rugs and in any draperies and upholstery in the hallway. An accent in the portieres of the dull blue in the paper will add to the unity of the picture. The dark brown carpet rug on the floor is reflected again in the trunks of the vines running through the design. There is a touch of orange in the flowers, and this has been repeated in the gleaming bit of pottery on the table, and used again in the design of the small cover. In other words, you have raised the key of your hallway so that it has a definite personality of its own. It is a room now in your house, rather than a mere passageway, and because of the cheer and color which your furnishings have created your guests receive the sense of welcome due them the moment they pass in through your door.

WALT WIGGIN

WALT WIGGIN'S chop house was famous; no one knew whether more famous for its planked steak or for Walt Wiggin himself. It was an inconvenient little hole to reach, inconvenient, that is, for the conventional and conservative; but, unlike other restaurants, it did not move when its boom began.

The chop house was in a basement which one reached by descending a flight of uneven stone steps. The floor was spread with clean sawdust, and there were perhaps two dozen small round tables under the central arc light that hung, round and bright-white, from the ceiling. At a corner of the red brick fireplace was Wiggin's table, and this the old-timers in the room would watch with interest as the chop house became increasingly the rendezvous for fashion, being safely adventurous and Bohemian. For the flavor of the occasion was to sit at Wiggin's table. When Treat 'Em Rough blustered that the coffee was bad, Wiggin quite calmly and patiently would explain why that was impossible. And when Treat 'Em Down condescended that the oysters were better than anything else in the city, Wiggin would name the one place that he knew excelled him. Meanwhile the room, delighted, took it all in.

One night a stranger alone was ushered with more air than usual to the seat beside Wiggin, who was quite oblivious to the stir that the new arrival had occasioned. Wiggin took to his guest as he had taken to no one for many moons. Gradually he found himself breaking through his reserve and talking freely of himself to the man at his right. Wiggin finally began telling the story of his life. He had been born in a packing box on the wharves—"like a mongrel pup," he said. Now he was a married man with a business bringing a fair income. This supported his wife and three children and also a ne'er-do-well brother-in-law. Yet Wiggin allowed himself some luxuries; he had a fondness for poetry, and he subscribed to the Atlantic Monthly, and went to the theater whenever there was a Shakespeare play.

"Now, you," he interrupted himself surveying the other, "you must have got on better in the world than I."

"I had a head start, that's all," said the stranger. Then he drew a card from his pocket, after a moment's hesitation, and presented it to Wiggin; and Wiggin, glancing at it, realized that he was entertaining the governor.

"Governor," said Wiggin, "we've had an interesting conversation. There will always be a place at my table for you."

And the chop house breathed again, for Wiggin had remained true to form and his habit of, under any circumstances, "treating 'em equal."

AMERICAN TOWN NOT IN SECOND PLACE

Can Well Bear Comparison With Those of England.

This nation was established by common people, and other common people have come over in millions to re-enforce the original settlers and their descendants; therefore it is hardly strange that common traits stick to so many of us, V. V. McNitt writes in McNaught's Monthly. Admitting this with all due humility, may we not still contend that our American masses will compare favorably in all such essential points as usefulness, sobriety, intelligence, and generosity with the masses of Great Britain or any other country? In reply to frequent criticisms of the awful flatness and dullness of American life, may we not assert that any American crowd, whether at a chautauqua lecture or at Coney Island or at a Sunday school picnic will stand comparison as to alertness and capacity for intelligent enjoyment with a similar gathering in any land?

Critics urge the monotony and colorlessness of life in our small towns, forgetting that they are comparing the amenities of these towns with those of great cities where they themselves live, instead of bringing into comparison the grayness of rustic villages in France or England. Gopher Prairie is a paradise of intellectual and social activity beside many towns of similar size in the Old world.

The English concede us a point in the superiority of our sanitary plumbing, and they might well add a number of other things that help to contribute to comfort and physical well being. Do not such things as in fixing the color of life? Our housewives think nothing of getting as much ice as they want to preserve foods in summer; the average Englishwoman can scarcely obtain ice at all, and when she wishes to keep a very little bit of milk or cream in warm weather she is forced to use a chemical preservative. We have fly screens to protect us in summer time; in England the flies find no such new-fangled barriers to keep them out, and so they hold conventions and mass meetings on the table. I have found English village inns, whose praises have been sung so eloquently by Christopher Morley, to be almost unbearably infested with flies in summer.

Our women folk buy bread neatly wrapped in wax paper; in England I have seen bare loaves tossed around on the sidewalks like loose bricks. Steaks are delivered at our doors carefully wrapped; in London I observed a butcher boy on a bicycle sideswiped by a passing horse, and the unwrapped meat in his delivery basket in front pitched out onto the pavement. Unconcernedly he replaced the meat in his basket and went his way.

I do not wish to cry down English life and English people—we have much to learn from them, but I do wish to make the point that ugliness is not peculiarly an American shortcoming. We have some varieties of ugliness, but the English have others of their own, and so far as I know they are not struggling harder than we to escape.

His Intelligence

"Has he been using it lately?" asked a visitor from Allegash.

"Yes. A feller who thought he was in a hurry hopped out of his automobile yesterday at the top of Turn Turtle hill, and left it with its engine running. A kid came along and gave it a push to see what would happen, and it ran a downhill going faster and faster minute. Slack ran out in front of , waving his hat and hollering, 'Whoa!' The doctor says he ort to be all right in about a month."—Kansas City Star.

Teddy Misplaced

The young woman had just returned to her rural home from several years in the big city. She was exhibiting the contents of her trunk, to the admiration and amazement of her mother, who had bought her clothes for 40 years at the general store.

"And these," said the daughter, holding up a delicate silken garment, "are teddies."

"Teddy's? You don't say! Young men are certainly different from what they used to be."—Akron Times.

Of Corsets Wrong, Dear

A man in England was telling his little niece about bird migration there and the child asked if the robins went away in winter. "No," said her uncle, "the robin just puts on a new red waistcoat and stays."

The little one looked puzzled. "That can't be right, Uncle Tom," she said. "I've seen heaps of pictures of robins with red waistcoats, but never one with stays."—Boston Transcript.

Again the Law!

"I see," remarked Farmer Jessup to his neighbor, "that they've jest passed a law agin Canady thistles."

"Wal, now, ain't that lucky?" said the latter. "I was wonderin' yesterday how I was goin' to get rid of that patch of mine."—Everybody's Magazine.

Shopping

"It's so hard to find what you want when you're shopping."

"Isn't it, though? Especially if you don't know what you want."—Everybody's Magazine.

Happiness Not Advertised

True happiness is of a retired nature, and an enemy to pomp and noise; it arises, in the first place, from the enjoyment of one's self, and in the next, from the friendship and conversation of a few select companions.

Reefer Jacket Is Favored in Paris

Single and Double-Breasted Garment Without Belts; Low Waistline.

The new tailored suits are of two types so far as cut is concerned, one employing the three-quarter length coat and the other the short jacket, advises a Paris correspondent in the New York Herald-Tribune. Many loose-fitting coats are seen hanging straight and free from the shoulders. Some of O'Rossen's best models in suits show the reefer jacket, single-breasted as a rule, but also shown with a low-crossing double-breasted lap. The decidedly mannish suit has a place in every collection. Generally the jackets are without belts, though in cut there is a suggestion of the low waistline. The skirts are as narrow as it is possible to have them and walk. They are very short, showing the bend of the knee when the wearer sits. The suit skirt differs from the one worn with the sweater-blouse in that it is never plaited, while the other type is always plaited. Practically all suitings are of the English type, running principally to worsteds, tweeds and homespuns.

The fancy scarf is still in its hey-day. At Monte Carlo it is worn in kasha with a border pattern, in elaborately printed crepe de chine, in chiffon, plain and printed, and in knitted silk. The latter type is much affected with the tailored suit or the wool coat to give a bright note of color to the otherwise dark toilette.

Prints are a prominent note for spring. The newest shawls are so exquisitely printed that they can hardly be distinguished from the embroidered models. These shawls are being shown in Paris both with and without deep borders of fringe. Some very striking ones are printed in large floral designs on black. Sometimes the pattern forms a deep border, while in other instances the colorful print is spread all over the center of the shawl.

Gayly printed parasols are seen all along the Riviera. The toile de jony, a printed cotton, has taken precedence over all others. These parasols are obviously carried more for ornament than for service. They are in flat Japanese form and have short clubby handles, usually in natural stained wood or in brightly colored enamel.

The newest shoe in Paris is the toe slipper. Now that everybody is well provided with all manner of fancy strap slippers the fashion suddenly changes and says that the simple toe slipper is the only correct thing. There is no buckle, no bow; in fact, only the bare slipper. The fashionable color is a pale pinkish beige, with stockings exactly to match.

Dotted Blue, Summery Hat in Matching Shade

Showing a lovely summer frock made up in drawn cloth of dark blue dots against a background of lighter, brownish blue. The summery hat in matching shade, completes the outfit that promises to be favored for summer wear.

Winged Cape Appears

The winged cape has made its appearance for evening wear in the soft airs of the Riviera where warmth is secondary to artistic display. This garment has a collar of fur, but really no neck since it is split from hem to collar in the rear. The arms are slipped through loops at the front and the garment hangs from either arm like wings which may be folded as desired.

Fan Fads

Nothing could be more stunning to carry with an evening frock of rose and silver brocade or with a simple dress of pink tulle than a huge fan of ostrich feathers, the colors of which are the rose and blue of a sunset.

Chimney Waste Is Checked

Most of the old-fashioned furnaces and many of the later designs lost a large percentage of their heat through the chimney. Electrical engineers are now beginning to check the waste with new devices. To date they have succeeded in converting into energy 50 per cent of the heat units of the fuel used.

State Apples Go To Metropolis

More Than Forty Per Cent of Apples Shipped to New York City Are Grown in New York State—Washington State Nearest Competitor.

New York state ships nearly twice as many apples to the New York city market as any other state in the union, according to a study of the subject made by The Bank of America, that city.

The monograph, which has just been issued in pamphlet form, points out that the total value of the apple crop of 1923 was $201,110,000, entitling it to be ranked as one of the major crops of the country, and that of this total New York produced 11 per cent. or approximately $24,000,000 worth Washington state alone surpassed this record.

It may surprise persons even in the apple business, for instance, to know that more than 40 per cent of all apples shipped to New York city in 1923 came from growers in this state, while Washington, the closest competitor, shipped 25 per cent. Carload shipments of this fruit to the metropolis increased 56 per cent in the first six months of 1924 as compared to the corresponding period of 1923. This fact reveals the growing importance of that market to apple growers throughout the country.

New York state leads in production of dried apples and is second only to Washington in output of canned apples. In this connection the study says:

"Most of the apples which are canned are for use in making of pies, but there is also a large output of canned apple sauce and apple butter. A certain amount of apples are sold every year in the dried state. For the most part these are from California and New York. Thus in 1922, 352 carloads were shipped from California and 870 from New York, or a total of 1,222 carloads out of a total for the country of 1,390 carloads."

It is revealed in this study that New York is the largest apple exporting port in the country, clearing over 70 per cent of all exports. New York state apples figure heavily in this foreign trade.

AWAY FROM STRAIGHT LINES—SAYS FASHION

By Eleanor Gunn.

There is certainly truth in the rumor that Dame Fashion refuses to continue on the straight and narrow path! She avoids anything obvious in line, and is making delightful little excursions into curved and other by-paths. In this the ensemble helps, for she may prefer the coat to be severely straight, hiding beneath it a dress which achieves the unexpected.

Sleeves are being starred this season, and are liable to provide the main interest in the costume. Even a chiffon gown may have sleeves which flutter in graceful lines as one dances, but the long-sleeved dance frock does not make a season any more successfuly than one swallow makes a summer.

When the sleeves are both long and loose, they are trimmed after the manner of circular skirts, artificial petals being a charming means of providing interest, especially when they flutter from a single stitch or bead.

In sports clothes, fulness is usually achieved via the pleat, and in most cases this is inverted. In this youthful morning model of natural colored cashmere twill, navy and beige striped silk surah are used. The cut of the jacket is derived from that of a man's suit coat, with no other trimming but the popular self-colored bone buttons. It will be seen that the skirt employs inverted pleats, the insides of which show the navy and beige striped silk surah.

Half the world is half asleep

It is terrible to feel all dragged out—to live from one day to the next in a constant state of weariness. Yet thousands do, because constipation is destroying their energy—even their interest in life. Only Kellogg's ALL-BRAN brings sure and safe relief from this disease.

"Poor Betty! She always looks tired"

BETTY was the office mystery. Once pretty, her beauty now lay masked behind an unwholesome complexion. Once vivacious, she now seemed eternally tired—a drooping figure of disappointment and dismay. Too bad she didn't realize that it was constipation which was stealing her strength.

But many men and women rid themselves forever of this devastating disease, by the simple, pleasant means of eating two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN every day—or in chronic cases, with every meal.

As Kellogg's ALL-BRAN journeys through the system, its fiber remains unchanged. It is what doctors call a bulk food—a bulk food which sweeps the intestine clean—a bulk food which absorbs and carries moisture through the intestinal tract, stimulating natural, healthy action. Something habit-forming pills and drugs can never do.

Serve Kellogg's ALL-BRAN with milk or cream, sprinkled over cereals; cooked with hot cereals; in soups, or made into the many recipes given on the package. Delicious with fruit, baked apple, etc.

Caution: Only ALL-BRAN brings sure results. A part-bran product can only be partially effective. Kellogg's is the one, only and original ALL-BRAN. All grocers sell it. Buy a package today. If eaten regularly, it is guaranteed to bring permanent relief or the grocer returns the purchase price. Served in leading restaurants and hotels.

58 Miles per Hour

5 to 25 Miles in 8 Seconds

Never before has there been an organization capable of producing at anywhere near the low Maxwell price such speed and power, economy and absence of vibration in a 4-cylinder car.

Chrysler engineers have combined with unprecedented smoothness a speed of 58 miles per hour and a flashing acceleration of 5 to 25 miles in 8 seconds.

They have engineered into this motor a gasoline economy of 25 miles to the gallon, and an upkeep economy which brings replacement and repair costs close to the zero mark.

We are eager to prove these Maxwell facts in a demonstration drive.

Other Side of the Story

By MARY B. WOODSON

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

"WADE JARRETT, you were asked here to tea for a purpose!"

"Kind lady, have mercy!"

"Yes, you were. I warn you. You're here to meet a woman!"

"Kind lady, why?"

"Because—well, I'm sick and tired of seeing such a fine man absolutely wasted—knocking about in—single blessedness—"

Pain darkened Jarrett's fine eyes. His lips set.

"Oh, I know very well what you're going to say—that there's only one woman in the world for you (rot) and that you're a one-woman man (rot)."

"And so it can't, Margaret, unless—perhaps—you'd take pity on me—" he broke off, his hungry, lonely eyes on hers sorrowfully. "By Jove, what a trump you've been to me! I don't suppose you'd—think of it, would you—"

Abruptly, Margaret put the width of the room between them. She straightened a rose in a vase with cold fingers. She didn't look at him.

"Don't be silly," she said decidedly. "You know I wouldn't. But why on earth Polly Wyeth couldn't have been satisfied—"

After an uncomfortable little silence, Jarrett said slowly:

"Well, she is a—very beautiful woman, Margaret. And then—" The man looked hard at his suddenly whitened knuckles. His breath shook him. "There were other men—"

"Oh Wade, are you sure?"

"Why—wasn't it four in the morning that—that last time at the—dance when she came back with her silly tale of just meaning a run in the moonlight with Crafton and a motor-car breakdown—the time I—snapped my fingers in her face and just—left her there to get home as best as she might?" His words hurried through his tight lips.

"But couldn't there have been some mistake? Couldn't there really have been a spin just for fun. Couldn't there have been a breakdown—"

"Pshaw! Spirit of fun on Monday, with the wedding set for Wednesday? What woman who loved her lover would have gone out at all with another man on the eve of her wedding—"

"Hadn't you been away a good deal, Wade?"

Jarrett's face reddened. He moved uneasily.

"Well, I—yes, I—I guess I had been a bit of a brute. She'd flirt and—things would get so—unhappy. I'd—well, want to cool off—Yes, I guess I had been away a good deal—"

"I don't suppose it ever occurred to you that women get—well, reckless and—defiant when they are lonely and—imagine themselves neglected by the—the men they—care for—"

"Our—our courtship had been so wonderfully happy—at first," hesitated the man, huskily. "It was all a horrible disappointment. I—I dare not let myself think of the—the happier days. I could break my heart just with remembering and with—things I—should have done and times when I was—when I was—wrong. I can—see it all—now, too late. But then—it was all so terrible—" Suddenly he put his face in his hands and sat very painfully still.

Quickly, with that odd mothering of women, Margaret went to him. Pityingly, she laid a gentle hand on his shoulder.

"Not half so terrible, Wade," she said tenderly, "as if you had been all wrong that—that last time. Just suppose what she told you had been true—There, that's the bell. Cheer up, dear. I shouldn't have let you talk about it. I ought to be hung. And I so want you to forget that other woman just once and be nice to my girl. Please. Somehow, I can't help but feel the—the other affair was just all—all a—mistake and you two were just made for each other—I want you to like each other so much—"

Still urging, she left him hastily, for his eyes, tragic, miserably lonely, were on her again dependently, beseechingly. Safely outside, in the hallway, she swayed a moment, dizzily, and closed her eyes. There in that room was the man she loved with all her heart, with all her soul, and heart and soul cried out to him. Suddenly her nails bit her palms and her throat swelled with denied sobs. She opened the front door, briskly, after a moment.

"Oh, my dear, I'm so glad you could come," she cried cordially. "I've caught a he-man to cure your dumps. He's here now and I—want you to know him and—like him—"

In a few moments more, she threw open the door of the room she had just quitted, threw it open and walked blithely in and said in his startled face:

"Polly Wyeth, I—I want you to—to meet—Mr. Wade Jarrett—"

Without heeding the man's low cry, or the woman's quick, surprised intake of breath, Margaret quickly shut the door again and left them alone. Slowly they were walking toward each other, terrible joy and hunger banishing terrible pride in their face. And as she fled on her stairway, the pent-up sobs ran riotously through Margaret's throat at last. They were at the unmaking love spoken words.

"Oh I love him, I love him. And he could have been mine—Oh he could be mine—if only I—I hadn't—been—the one of the—two, to—run—I—I hadn't known—how much they—they needed—each other—"

of the soldiers' scarlet red were sold for many times it would most often hit during a battle. This seemed to be the most fatal of all color for it never followed by chaos and broke. This of course was due to the fact that these colors could be easily spotted.

Since the same rule of visibility prevails at the present time it is quite certain that most women this spring will be able to be seen from quite a distance.

Yet bright colors were not the only ones worn by women and men on the battle fields. Even the dark clothes for the climate and season. Leather hat and shoes were worn and even the

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

By Mary Graham Bonner

COPYRIGHT BY WESTERN NEWSPAPER UNION

GRUNTER

A new pig had come to the Pig Pen, and all the pigs were grunting and squealing.

The new pig's name was Grunter.

He was not a baby pig, nor was he a grown-up pig. He was an in-between pig.

He had a little twisted tail and short bristly pink-white hair and pink eyes and a very roguish way of looking out of the sides of his eyes.

His snout showed that he belonged to the pig family. It was the same snout that runs through the whole family.

"Grunt, grunt," said Grunter, "I'm glad to come to this Pen.

"It looks as though you had good pig weed around, and the farmer looks as though he fed you well. In fact, it looks as though he fed you too well.

"It's a good thing I've come. You might all have collapsed from indigestion if I hadn't come just in time."

"Grunt, grunt, what does he mean?" asked Grandfather Porky.

"Squeal, squeal, what does he mean?" asked Sammy Sausage.

"Grunt, grunt, what does he mean?" asked Brother Bacon.

"Grunt, grunt, what does he mean?" asked Sir Percival Pork.

"Squeal, squeal, what does he mean?" asked Sir Benjamin Bacon.

"Grunt, grunt, what does he mean?" asked Pinky Pig.

"Squeal, squeal, what does he mean?" asked Master Pink Pig.

"Grunt, grunt, what does he mean?" asked Pinky Pig's mother.

"Squeal, squeal, what does he mean?" asked Mrs. Pink Pig.

"Grunt, grunt, what does he mean?" asked Mrs. Pinky Pig.

"I mean," said Grunter, "that I can eat a little of your food for you, too,

"We Could Never Be So Unfair."

as well as my own share—I will do this for each one of you—and then you will not get indigestion."

"Ah, but you might," said Grandfather Porky Pig, "and we could never treat a newcomer that way. We could never permit you to get indigestion. Better far that we get it!"

"No, we could never let you get indigestion," said Sammy Sausage.

"It would not be kind," said Brother Bacon.

"We wouldn't have the heart to do such a thing, to let you get indigestion," said Sir Percival Pork.

"It would be unfair," said Sir Benjamin Bacon.

"Very unfair," said Mrs. Pinky Pig.

"Most unfair," said Mrs. Pink Pig.

"Decidedly unfair," said Pinky Pig.

"Extremely unfair," said Master Pink Pig.

And Pinky Pig's mother said:

"Oh, so unfair! We could never be so unfair as to do that."

"Oh, you needn't worry about me," said Grunter. "I have a good digestion."

"Ah, but you must not take chances with it. Any day your digestion may go back on you, and if you ate too much, it would be taking chances," said Granfather Porky.

"What Granfather says is right," said Brother Bacon.

"Quite right," said Sammy Sausage.

"Grandpa knows a lot," said Pinky Pig.

And the others all said the same, as they twisted their little tails and looked at Grunter out of their pink eyes.

Grunter looked at them out of his pink eyes and twisted his little tail too, and said:

"Grunt, grunt, grunt, grunt, grunt, grunt, grunt. No more luck for me here than at home in my home pen. But you all seem a nice lot even though you don't offer food hospitality to me so I'll stay here, thank you, thank you, grunt, grunt, grunt."

"You're welcome," said all the pigs. "You're very welcome to our mud, our society, our grunts and our squeals, but not to our food, grunt, grunt, squeal, squeal not to our food!"

And with that understanding the new arrival remained.

Why is an orchestra like a motor-bus?

Because they each have a conductor.

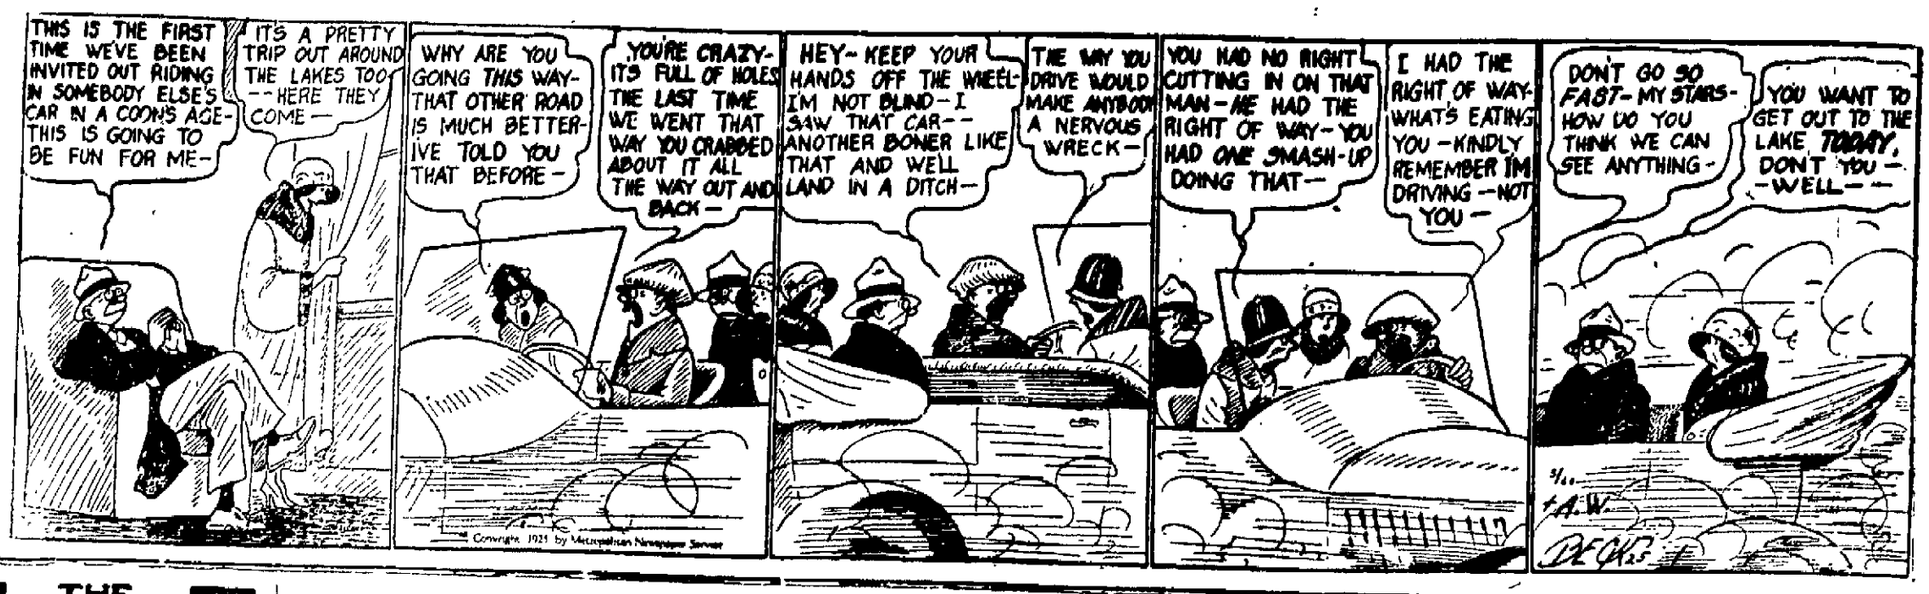
Why should a fisherman soon make his fortune?

Because his is all net profit.

Cherish Your Friends

A friend whom you have been quibbling during your whole life, you ought not to be displeased with in a little trifle. A stone in many years becomes a ruin; take care that you do not destroy it in an instant against an other stone—friend.

GAS BUGGIES—If It Isn't One Thing—It's Another.



THIS IS THE FIRST TIME WE'VE BEEN INVITED OUT RIDING IN SOMEBODY ELSE'S CAR IN A COON'S AGE- THIS IS GOING TO BE FUN FOR ME-
IT'S A PRETTY TRIP OUT AROUND THE LAKES TOO- -HERE THEY COME-
WHY ARE YOU GOING THIS WAY- THAT OTHER ROAD IS MUCH BETTER- I'VE TOLD YOU THAT BEFORE-
YOU'RE CRAZY- IT'S FULL OF HOLES THE LAST TIME WE WENT THAT WAY YOU CRABBED ABOUT IT ALL THE WAY OUT AND BACK-
HEY- KEEP YOUR HANDS OFF THE WHEEL- I'M NOT BLIND- I SAW THAT CAR- ANOTHER BONER LIKE THAT AND WE'LL LAND IN A DITCH-
THE WAY YOU DRIVE WOULD MAKE ANYBODY A NERVOUS WRECK-
YOU HAD NO RIGHT CUTTING IN ON THAT MAN- ME HAD THE RIGHT OF WAY- YOU HAD ONE SMASH-UP DOING THAT-I HAD THE RIGHT OF WAY- WHAT'S EATING YOU- KINDLY REMEMBER I'M DRIVING- NOT YOU-
DON'T GO SO FAST- MY STARS- HOW DO YOU THINK WE CAN SEE ANYTHING-
YOU WANT TO GET OUT TO THE LAKE TODAY, DON'T YOU- -WELL- -

THE KITCHEN CABINET

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

Be not uneasy, discouraged or out of humor because practice falls short of precept in some particulars. If you happen to be beaten return to the charge.—Marcus Aurelius.

FOOD FOR THE HUNGRY

A most tender and delicate muffin and especially nice for breakfast is:

Raisin Muffins.—Take three cupfuls of warm water, one-half cupful of lard, two eggs, two-thirds of a cupful of sugar and two-thirds of a cupful of yeast or its equivalent in compressed yeast, mix as stiff as can be stirred, let rise, stir again, then cover slowly and set in a cool place. Put the muffins in the tins about four hours before time to bake them. They may be put into the tins late at night and brought into the heat early and baked for breakfast.

Macaroon Custard.—Soak nine macaroons in a fourth of a cupful of orange juice. When they are well softened, add the yolks of two eggs well beaten, one and one-half cupfuls of milk, two tablespoonfuls of sugar and one tablespoonful each of bread crumbs and dry macaroons. Butter a shallow pudding dish, pour in the custard and cook in hot water, covered for twenty minutes. When about half done, whip the whites of two eggs until stiff, add two tablespoonfuls of sugar and two teaspoonfuls of lemon juice, pile lightly on top of the custard and finish cooking. Serve cold, dotted with fresh macaroons.

Rhubarb Baked With Figs.—Cover well-washed figs with boiling water and cook until the water is nearly evaporated. Cut a pound of rhubarb, unpeeled (if young), into inch pieces, put a layer into a baking dish, sprinkle with sugar, add a few figs, then another layer of rhubarb until the pound is used and one-half pound of figs. Add a few spoonfuls of water to start the cooking and cover, bake in slow oven until tender but unbroken. Dates or raisins may take the place of figs.

Slaw With Dressing.—Shred cabbage very fine and let it stand in cold water to become crisp. Put one cupful of vinegar, two teaspoonfuls of sugar, a pinch of salt, and one teaspoonful of butter in a saucepan and bring to the boiling point. Beat the yolks of five eggs, add the boiling liquid slowly and cook just long enough to cook the eggs. Pour over the well-drained cabbage and serve.

February Report Of Dairy League

Reports on their operations for the months of January and February now being mailed to League members from the general office of the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association, Inc., in New York city, announce a gross pool price for February, of $2.36 per hundred pounds of three per cent milk at the base zone 200-210 miles from New York city. As in January, no deduction is made for certificates.

A deduction of eight cents for general pool expenses makes the cash distributions to League farmers $2.30, the highest February cash distribution in pool history. This is 48 cents per hundred pounds above the net pool price of February a year ago. It is slightly lower than January prices because of the increase in surplus with the advance of the "flush" period of milk production.

The January sales of fluid milk from plants operated by the League amounted to $1,717,820 96, which, according to the published report, is the highest total for this item in dollars and cents of any month in the history of the pool.

In his regular letter to members which accompanies the monthly report and check, President Slocum of the League says.

"The present situation of League dairymen is most favorable. The number of cancellations received during the recent withdrawal period was relatively small, since February 1st, we have accepted 407 new members and are now receiving new applications at the rate of about 30 per day."

President Slocum goes on to say that all reconsiderations and new applications are being carefully passed upon by the executive committee before final acceptance. Recent greatly increased demands for League fluid milk makes it of greater importance than ever that all members, especially members just coming in, conform to the most rigid requirements in order that their milk may be available for the fluid markets of the association the year 'round.

League dairymen everywhere are optimistic over their outlook for the present year. This feeling of confidence is also reflected among other dairymen who have no marketing organizations of their own but who inevitably benefit by the stability given the milk market by the League organization.

League farmers declare that this improved situation has been brought about by the increased influence of the League in the fluid markets and the consequent elimination of surplus manufacturing operations by this great dairymen's cooperative.

MISS ELAINE TOWNE

For the sake of her art, Miss Elaine Towers, Los Angeles film actress, was willing to change her light brown hair to a golden hue. But when, she says, it turned black and then green, that was going too far, so she has brought suit against a Los Angeles drug company for $15 000 damages.

Baptist Church Play.

A play, entitled, "Corney Turns the trick," will be given by the U. U. G. girls of the Albany Avenue Baptist Church on Wednesday and Friday evenings, April first and third. The proceeds of the play will be used for the building fund. This fund is for the purpose of building an addition on the church so that more extensive work may be undertaken. According to reports the cast is working hard and a pleasing performance is promised.

Fanny Crosby Memorial.

A fanny Crosby memorial service will be held at the Ponckhockie Congregational Church on Sunday evening. The songs for that service will be favorite hymns which the great song writer composed. They will be featured in solos, duets, quartets and choruses, sung from a book which contains only hymns of her compositions. At the close of the service every family present will be given one of these books.

Walkers' Traffic Lights

A London newspaper reports that so great has become the automobile peril in that erstwhile land of quiet lanes and remote byways that people walking at night on busy highways wear over their shoulders small red flash disks that reflect the lights of automobiles approaching from behind, thus indicating to the drivers that a pedestrian is ahead on the road.

SHOKAN.

Shokan, March 19.—A poverty social will be held in the Sunday school room of the Reformed Church Friday evening, March 20. Come dressed in your old clothes otherwise you will be fined. The same applies if you wear jewelry.

Ms Avery spent a recent day here. She expects to be back home to stay before long.

A regular "chin fest" was given by the Community Club to all the folks of Shokan and Ashokan March 17th. The day had been a miserable one, but the weather prevented but a few from coming out. The square sets were in full swing. Old and young mingled and together. What took out the old folks was 24 hands around. The music was furnished by Montoma Boys. Later in the evening coffee, sandwiches, cake and ice cream was served. There was a grand display, appropriate to St. Patrick's Day, most of the young ladies having donned green dresses for the occasion.

The square sets and popular dancing will be held Monday evenings at Winchell's Hall.

John Allen has been spending a few days in town with his uncle, Sam Allen. John is expected to return again when he can stay a little longer.

A large truck had the misfortune of going into the ditch between Mr. Wager's and Mrs. Teal's home Tuesday night. It was necessary for the truck to remain there all night. It reached across the road so it was barely possible for another car to pass.

Modern Home Bureau.

The second lesson in the spring millinery work will be held on Tuesday, March 24, at the home of Mrs. Lillian Fairbridge beginning at 10 o'clock. Members bring sewing equipment and things used at last meeting, also material out of which hats are to be made and thread to match. Five-eighths of a yard of wire material will be needed. Those who were not present at the first meeting may attend this class by getting instructions given at first lesson from either Mrs. Black or Mrs. Hyatt, millinery leader.

Wholesale Surrounding

In front of the apartment houses in Spanish cities it is no unusual thing to see three young men standing side by side in the street, looking up and pouring out impassioned protestations of love to a girl on a different floor.

3,000-Year-Old Flute Plays Now

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Philadelphia, March 20.—Music of 3,000 years ago is brought back here every time Professor Jean R. Beck, of the University of Pennsylvania, plays his small two-reed flute.

The ancient flute was taken from the tomb of an Egyptian nobleman who lived ages ago, according to Professor Beck, who bound the two reeds together with catgut, dipped in pitch. The reeds were in three parts when the professor received them. He is able to produce the music played many centuries ago. Air enters through slits in the sides of the reeds, instead of at the ends, as in modern instruments.

"Each note and its octave are sounded equally loud at the same time," commented Professor Beck. "I cannot explain this. It is the only instrument I ever saw which would do this."

This instrument was played 3,000 years ago by a slave girl, said the university professor. He has a picture of a wall painting placed in the tomb of Ounas, one of the Pharaohs, who reigned in 1800 B. C., which shows a slave girl playing a flute almost identical with the one in his collection.

Bees That Lay Eggs in Bricks and Wood

Sometimes as you are looking at an old wall you will notice that the mortar between the bricks contains a number of deep pits. If you probe into various holes you will be startled eventually by the exit from one of them of a small, but very angry, bee. You have, in fact, disturbed the mason bee in his home. The hole in which he was lurking was made by his powerful jaws.

The female lays eggs in little receptacles at the bottom of the hole and places a store of food beside each egg. The hole is then sealed up with a mixture of clay and mortar, softened with the bee's saliva. The eggs are left to themselves, and when hatched the young bees eventually eat their way out into the open.

The cousin of the mason bee is called the carpenter bee. He burrows into woodwork, choosing generally the underside of the beam, to protect the hole from rain.

At the bottom of the hole an egg is laid. Then comes a partition of mud and wood chips; then another egg, and so on till the hole is filled. The carpenter then seals it securely and leaves the eggs to look after themselves, and when hatched the bees eat through each partition till they get out.

Artist's Fee Too High Even for Profiteer

One of the good stories about the famous painter, Meissonier, is in regard to his experience with a new-rich gentleman who had erected a private theater at his chateau. Meissonier was just then at the height of his fame and was spending months painting pictures and selling them for about $200 a square inch.

The rich man conceived the idea that what his theater most needed was a drop curtain painted by the famous artist, so he went to the studio and proposed the matter to him.

"It will be 30 feet high and 35 feet wide," was the reply.

"My friend," said Meissonier blandly, "it would take me 30 years to paint such a curtain, and it would cost you $6,000,000."

Counting the Cost

"Don't fidget!" snapped mother.

Little Bertha stopped toying with the lid of her chocolate box and endeavored to concentrate upon the movie. But it was a very dull affair, and her mind soon came wandering back to the box.

In two minutes her small fingers were busy again.

"Bertha, don't fidget!" repeated her mother.

Once again the child obeyed, but once more the production failed to hold her fingers away from the lid of the chocolate box.

"Now, Bertha," exclaimed her mother, "I warn you."

Bertha opened her eyes wide. When her mother spoke like that she was not to be disregarded. Glancing doubtfully at the dull screen and then at the tempting lid, she whispered: "Would it be a hairbrush, mummy, or just your hand?"

Town Has Long History

Nice or Nicaea in ancient times was a town in Bithynia, a small country of Asia Minor and a province of the Roman empire. It lay to the southeast of the Sea of Marmora. During the Second century before the Christian era Bithynia was an independent kingdom and Nicaea was the seat of the royal government. Nicaea is celebrated as having been the scene of the first general council of the Christian church, which sat from June 19 to August 25, 325, and adopted the creed, which, taking its name from the name of the town in which the council met, is known as the Nicene creed. This creed emphasizes the divinity of our Lord and the doctrine of the Trinity. It is the fundamental creed of all Trinitarian churches the world over.

A Pleasing Frock for Mother's Girl.

4999. Plaid woolen with flannel in a contrasting shade will be good for this design. It is also attractive in velvet, or taffeta, and very good for wash materials. The sleeve may be finished in wrist length, or, short as in the small view.

The pattern is cut in four sizes: 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. To make the dress as illustrated in the large view, requires 2⅞ yards of plaid material 27 inches wide and ¾ yard of plain for a 10 year size. If made with short sleeves ¼ yard less of the plaid material is required.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in coin or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Kingston, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

Fashion Book Notice.

Send 15c in coin or stamps to The Freeman for our up-to-date spring and summer 1925 Book of Fashions, showing color plates, and containing 300 designs of ladies', misses' and children's patterns, a concise and comprehensive article on dressmaking, also some points for the needle (illustrating 36 of the various simple stitches), all valuable hints to the home dressmaker.

Historic Fire-Grate Sold

The next great war may be between men and insects and, as during the World war, airplanes promise to play an important part.

"In the south of France army flame-throwers, designed originally to spread death among the Germans, are now turned against the locusts," says an article in the Forecast. "There has also been experimental use of certain kinds of war gases.

"The air service of the army supplied a specially equipped airplane, and the place chosen for the first work was southern Louisiana. The success of this new strategy against the boll-weevil suggested that it be also directed against malaria-bearing mosquitoes. The poison used against the mosquitoes was paris green, heavily diluted with tripoli earth.

"This experiment also proved successful, as the planes could fly over parts of the swamps which were otherwise inaccessible. The trees did not interfere with the spreading of the dust, the machines flying sufficiently high to avoid contact and circled them whenever necessary."

Seize Opportunity

Opportunity is in respect of time, in some sense, as time is in respect to eternity; it is the small moment, the exact point, the critical minute, on which every good work so much depends.

SUPREME COURT, ULSTER COUNTY.—William Van Vliet, Plaintiff, against Percival R. Cobb and Lillian S. Cobb, his wife, Susan Van Vliet and Solomon G. Carpenter, as receiver of the property of Percival R. Cobb, Defendants.

Pursuant to a judgment of foreclosure and sale rendered herein on the 16th day of February, 1925, and duly entered in the office of the Clerk of the County of Ulster on the 19th day of February, 1925, I, the undersigned, Referee, duly appointed for such purpose by said judgment, will sell at public auction to the highest bidder, on the 10th day of April, 1925, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon on that day, at the front door of the County Court House, in the City of Kingston, Ulster County, New York, the real property and real estate directed by said judgment to be sold and therein described as follows:

"All that tract or parcel of land, situate in the Town of New Paltz, County of Ulster and State of New York, beginning at center of highway leading from Gilbertie to Rifton, on the north side of a lot of land, belonging to Edmund Deyo, and runs first along land of said Deyo, north sixty-three degrees and fifteen minutes west thirty-five chains and eighty-four links to a stone on the east side of a lane, thence along the east side of the lane, north twenty-eight degrees and forty-five minutes east eight chains to the southwest corner of a lot of land belonging to James Van Wagenen, sixty-four degrees and forty-five minutes east, thirty-four chains and eighty-four links to the center of the highway, aforesaid, thence along the center of said highway south twenty-two degrees and ten minutes west eight chains and seventy-eight links to the place of beginning. Containing twenty-nine acres and sixty-five one-hundredths of an acre, be the same more or less. Being the same premises conveyed by Frank B. Bindrell and Nellie M. Bindrell, his wife, to William Van Vliet, by deed dated September 1st, 1920, and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's office in book of deeds 467 at page 340."

Dated, February 20th, 1925.

OFFICE CAT

By Junius

There are no doubt some persons who truly believe that they'd be better off if they had more fresh air, but one can't place very much faith in that "fiend" that opens the office windows and then leaves the room.

Radio Announcer — Miss Amy Stubbs, lyric soprano, will now sing "All Alone."

All things come to those who wait, by which time the novelty has quite worn off.

Correct this sentence: "You needn't think I will demand alimony," said she. "I wouldn't have a cent of your old money."

Sheriff Amos Tash of Beardless county has been following a couple of alleged bootleggers the past few days. The writer upon asking Amos if he had had any evidence was told there was little to speak of. Anyway it seems that the sheriff can't speak out loud much lately.

To catch suckers merely offer some unreasonable returns and let nature take its course.

Good pair of ears,

From the things that he hears
Then, too, he could live

Open grates as a menace to the safety of children have about been eliminated. Now something should be done for the safety of adults. We would start by exiling those housewives who persist in having their floors so slick that a fellow does a flop every time he steps on a rug.

"I miss my husband," wails a woman. Aim lower, madam.

Since the advent of the crossword puzzle, a woman complains that she is having a hard time to get the last word.

If we have an old fashioned summer it will be a good deal warmer on the Fourth of July than now.

Has the baby had the measles yet, Mr. Smith?

Sh-h! Don't speak so loud. Whenever he hears anything mentioned that he hasn't got, he cries for it!

He who hesitates is awfully old-fashioned.

The most expensive thing about a house is company.

All the wisdom of the ages boiled down to benefit husbands consists of two words. "Pet her."

Only the fast thinkers become leaders. He who hesitates is bossed.

London and Paris

At the beginning of the Eighteenth century Paris equaled London in population and no doubt surpassed it at some earlier periods. The footing which England gained in India gave London a fresh source of wealth through its rich commerce with the Orient; it was then that London forged permanently ahead of Paris in the number of inhabitants.

State Tax Information

If any divorced persons seek aid from Auditor R. V. Hayes, of the state income tax bureau at the court house here, on March 23 to April 11, they want to bear in mind their exemption is but $1,000.

"Our most threatening letters are received from the husbands in such cases," explained District Director John G. Malone, of that bureau, "who through alimony payments, find their weekly balances actually less than when they had their love-nests, but the law treats them as single persons and only entitled to the lesser examptions.

"One such writer," said the director, "wanted to know why the state didn't send out a firing squad to collect his extra tax, due to the taking of the wrong exemption. He had been divorced twice, with two children by his first marriage and four by the second venture. However, as he actually supported these dependents, he could claim $400 for each of them."

Thousands of industrial workers yearly either give up their homes in New York state or settle here. If they are single and earn $1,000 net income or more during this part year residence, they should file returns. Those who are married and living with their wives must report on $2,500 or more of net income.

Persons so placed do not receive the full exemptions. They must divide the exemptions by twelve and multiply by the number of months of residence in New York state. So, those unmarried ones who resided in New York state six months in 1924 would then be allowed $500, or one-half of the usual exemption.

Married persons have to split up the exemption of $2,500 where the total net income is $5,000 or less or of $2,000 where such net income is over $5,000.

Odd Present From Lover

Near one entrance of the great cathedral of Seville hangs a patched and painted crocodile, which once served as a princely love token that failed of its mission. In 1200 it was sent by the sultan of Egypt to a beautiful princess of Spain, who declined a suitor whose first present could scarcely be said to speak of affection.

CAPE MAY IS ALARMED BY ENCROACHING SEA

Water Has Now Cut In So Far That Several Properties on Beach Are In Danger.

Cape May, N. J.—The Villa Maria, formerly the Hotel Carlton, now owned by the Sisters of St. Joseph of Chestnut Hill, Pa., and many other valuable properties along the Delaware Bay shore and the seashore at Cape May Point are menaced by the encroachment of the bay and ocean. Hundreds of thousands of dollars have been spent in the past few years to protect the beach front, but the sea has washed in several feet during the winter and it is feared that at the next high tide the water will get in behind the Villa Maria and wash out the underpinning of this old four-story structure and the priest house near by. The old Hotel Shoreham and a handsome cottage known as the Mother house, up near the Cape May lighthouse, also are said to be in some danger. It is at this point that Delaware bay and the Atlantic ocean meet in the Rips, which can be plainly discerned.

Many experts have sought in the past few years to find some way to build jetties, dikes or walls which will withstand the tides when the wind is high. The owners of the Lanknau villa, which is occupied by the German sisters of the German hospital at Twenty-first and College avenue during the summer months, have partly stopped the inroads of the sea in front of their handsome summer rest house by means of a jetty built by Lemuel E. Miller, Jr., former city engineer of Cape May.

Mayor Edward W. Springer, together with the other commissioners of Cape May Point, has appealed to the government through Congressman Isaac Bacharach and Senator Walter E. Edge

Cape May also has a serious problem. Experts say that the closing of the inlet at the northern end of two-mile beach and the building of the government jetties at the entrance to Cape May harbor have caused the trouble. A delegation will go to Washington to see if the jetties cannot be extended a half-mile, or if a hook cannot be put on the eastern end, which the experts say will cause the currents to build up the beach.

Plague of Seals Besets Fishermen of Wales

Nevin, England.—A plague of seals along the south Carnarvonshire coast recently put the fishermen temporarily out of business and caused the government ministry of fisheries much annoyance.

On one occasion the seals swarmed into the fishermen's favorite haunts in such numbers that the gunboat H. M. S. Doon was dispatched to Carnarvon bay, and, with the aid of residents along the coast, who brought out their hunting pieces, 15 seals were killed in one drive.

It has been established that the seals have a breeding place in caves near Nevin, and the government is considering what steps to take to rid the coast of the nuisance. The seals of this colony are known as the common seal and the gray seal, which have inhabited various parts of the British coasts for many generations, but not in such numbers, ordinarily, as to cause an inconvenience to fishermen.

The fur of these specimens has no particular value commercially.

Catch Fish With Bare Hands in Utah River

Washington.—An ideal stream for the lazy or impatient fisherman, who craves nourishment rather than the thrill of the catch, has been discovered by interior department engineers in the inaccessible, turbid San Juan river, one of the main tributaries of the Colorado in Utah.

The swiftly flowing San Juan, called Pawhuska (mad river) by the Navajo Indians who live nearby, never gets clear. At times the river runs with a smooth, oily movement, like that of molten metal, so red and viscous is it with silt. At such times the fish become exhausted and flounder on the surface, their dorsal fins projecting into the air. Then the fisherman needs only to arm himself with a club to catch a fish with bare hands after he has stunned it with a blow.

Airplanes Take Food to Marooned Mountaineers

Berne.—Corned beef and hardtack dropped from airplanes in daily flights over the Alps saved the lives of three Swiss Alpinists who were marooned for eight days by storms in the Martinelli shelter hut on top of the Bernina mountains and who arrived safely at Pontresina.

The Alpinists, bearing two days' rations, left for their climb on February 10 and were caught in a vortex of hurricanes. They had been gone four days when Swiss military flyers discovered them in the wilderness and directed them to their shelter hut.

The flyers then returned for food which, being unable to land owing to the deep snow, they managed to fling to the Alpinists as they swooped down over the hut. This performance was repeated daily until the storms abated.

Leading Actors in Chicago's Million Dollar Poison Mystery

Dr. Charles C. Faiman, head of the National University of Sciences, a bacteriological institution, is pictured here making the confession which resulted in indictments for first degree murder being returned against him and William D. Shepherd, whom he implicated in the death of William N. McClintock, the "millionaire orphan," whose estate Shepherd inherited. Faiman alleged he aided Shepherd in accomplishing McClintock's death by supplying him with typhoid germs, in return for which he said he was to get $100,000. Shepherd has denied all Faiman's assertions. Dr. Faiman is shown with Assistant State's Attorney John Sbarbaro and K. A. Sheeder, stenographer. Upon the death of Mrs. William McClintock, Sr., mother of the dead man, "Billy" was placed in the care of Shepherd and wife, his foster-parents. As a result of the expose, Mrs. McClintock's body will be exhumed and search made for traces of poison. The laboratory shown is that of Dr. Faiman's School, where Shepherd is charged with having taken a week's course in germ study. Mrs. Louise Faiman, wife of the indicted doctor, is shown at the microscope. It is expected that Mrs. Faiman will be called to the stand as a witness in the murder trial. "Billy" McClintock's favorite portrait of his foster-mother, Mrs. Shepherd, is shown above.

Seals and Tuna Fish Have Hiding Places

There is a mystery surrounding the ur seal which has never been solved. o one has ever been able to discover here they go in winter. No one has t been able to make a record of eir hiding place.

All that is known, says the Minneolis Tribune, is that on the islands f St. Paul and St. George, in Alaska, e seals begin to appear about the d of April or the first of May and ward the latter part of August or in e first weeks of September they disppear as strangely and mysteriously s they came. In this respect they re not less puzzling to scientists than e huge schools of tuna fish which ppear and disappear from the waters f southern California regularly each ear.

Tuna fish have been caught, marked nd turned loose, with the hope that some of them might be caught in other waters during the winter months, but so far none of them has been captured. A similar method of marking seals would do no good, for they are never seen during the winter months.

Years ago the seals numbered 5,000,000 or more, where today they may be counted only up to four or five hundred thousand. Yet even in the days when they were most numerous, their habit of disappearing suddenly without leaving a trace of their whereabouts and as suddenly reappearing after an absence of several months was just as mysterious as it is today.

Paris Bank Messenger Needs No Armed Guard

The Paris bank messenger wears a cocked hat with an air of dignity. His coat is liberal in cut and you can see the big brass buttons on it glittering in the sunshine quite a long way off. A brass plate over his heart bears a number and under his arm he carries a leather satchel attached to a big chain secured about his waist.

There is an air of prosperity about him. He is of liberal proportions and plants his feet firmly. He inspires confidence and we might trust our fortune to his keeping and still sleep peacefully at night.

We meet him often in the busy morning near the opera pursuing his steadfast way along the crowded pavement. He, least of anyone, is in a hurry. He is picturesque, slow and sure. And that we feel we may confide our treasure to him is due not to the chain of shining steel with which he grapples it, nor his glittering buttons, nor the brazen number on his breast, but he is secure, inviolate because he is fantastic, and treasure walks the streets unguarded save by the fantasy of a glorious cocked hat.—From the Continental Edition of the London Mail.

When Poachers Flourished

As a profession, poaching has fallen off greatly in Great Britain. A hundred years ago the nights between the harvest and hunters' full moons were the nights of the poachers' delight, and there would be a steady flow of game not killed by shot, to the cellars of dealers in country towns, to the country inns, and to the boxes of such coachmen and guards and country carriers as were willing to do a little business in handling game. A hundred-year-old record shows that no fewer than four-and-fifty poachers were sheltered in Lewes jail at one time. There were poachers in every town and village, hence the threatening notices, "Beware of Mantraps," still often to be seen in British woodlands.

Confidence in Pirates' Camp

Pittsburgh Team Has a Fine Collection of Infield Speed Demons—Veteran Hard Hitting Outfield and Good Pitching Staff.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Paso Robles, Cal., March 20.—Confidence, that intangible element, possession or lack of which frequently makes or breaks baseball clubs, fairly abounds this year in the Pirates' spring training camp here.

From Barney Dreyfus, veteran president of the Pittsburgh National League club, down to the bat boy and including Peppery Bill McKechnie, hustling manager, and every one of the fifty men in camp here, there seems to be a feeling that this is to be the Pirates' year.

McKechnie naturally is chary of predictions.

"It's too soon to say how the club is going to shape up," he said today as he directed practice. But he hastened to indicate he was in no way displeased with the way things were shaping up and he was looking toward the opening of the season in an optimistic frame of mind.

The collective eye of the baseball squad management, camp followers and baseball critics is trained on one addition to the Pirate squad. He is Al Niehaus. The Pirates need a first baseman and indications are that in him they have found one. He led the Southern Association in batting last year and is practicing here like he meant to do something just like that this year in big league company.

For in Glen Wright at short stop, Moore at second and "Pie" Traynor at third, McKechnie has a collection of infield speed demons that are going to run away with something. Add Carey, Cuyler and Bigbee to this trio as speed merchants on the bases and an idea is gleaned that a lot of bases are going to be purloined by the 1925 Pirates aggregation.

The outfield will be a veteran one. Cuyler, who has been lamming them over the left field fence here, will be in right, "Scoop" Carey in center and Bigbee in left. Grantham and Barnhart are struggling to break into this combination, but they are finding the chance slim.

The veteran pitchers have not had time to show what they will be able to do this year. From all indications the Pirates are getting away to an auspicious start. With one or two exceptions—notably Barnhart, who was kept at home by family illness, and Pitcher Vic Aldridge, who hasn't signed, the squad is a likely looking bunch.

THE PRIZE

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

IF YOU will conquer life, if you
Will live it as you long to do,
Depends not only on the man
But on the purpose, on the plan,
The dream with which your life began.

For I have seen that those who fail,
Whose hearts are empty, lives are stale,
Failed not because life never brought
The thing they wished for, thing they sought—
They found it was not what they thought.

They won—but when they seized the prize
It faded there before their eyes
It was a tinsel thing, not worth
The brotherhood, the love, the mirth,
That they had paid for it on earth.

The worthless things, I found, were these:
Mere opulence, mere empty ease.
For, when that opulence had come,
It was not worth one-half the sum
That they had paid for ev'ry crumb.

But they who this their pray'r had made:
The chance to labor at their trade,
To fashion things they loved to make,
Who labored for the labor's sake,
Not merely ease to overtake—

These were the happy, these content,
Whatever way their fortunes went;
Because they did not wait until
Senility, the final hill,
To find their joy—for no one will.

Our joy is all around us, now;
The bird is singing o'er the plow,
The busy spindle hums a song—
Oh, he who waits for joy is wrong,
For there is laughter all along!

These are the joys to make us sing.
The laurel wreath is often late,
And fortune fickle as our fate—
But for our joy we need not wait.

—O—

Your Last Name

IS IT SILLIMAN?

THE Silliman family in the United States was founded by Daniel Silliman who came from Holland. The tradition is, however, that the family originated in Italy and there is enough in the sound of the name to bear out this tradition. One of Daniel Silliman's descendants was Gold Selleck Silliman, a brigadier general in the Revolution and his son was Benjamin Silliman, born in 1779, who was a well known American chemist. He founded the American Journal of Science and art. His son Benjamin Silliman, born in 1816, was a chemist and physicist also well known.

Strange and Strang—These names are sometimes merely different forms of the same surname, but there is reason to believe that Strange sometimes has a different origin. There is a surname Lestrange, originally L'estrange, and Strange is sometimes derived from this, with the meaning of stranger or foreigner. However, Strang usually is from Strong, Strang being the peculiar north of England way of pronouncing that adjective. In this case it is merely a descriptive surname.

Sir Robert Strange, an eminent line engraver who was born in Orkney, in 1721, was a member of a distinguished Scotch family whose name is sometimes spelled Strang or Strance.

Thibaut—As a surname this is derived from the first name that in France has the forms Theodebald, Thiebault, Thiebaud and Tibaut, and in England Theodebald and Thebald.

Wolves Stick Together

Ernest Thompson Seton in his book on Northern animals says that wolves are the most sociable of beasts of prey. They gather in packs or parties during winter months chiefly for the purpose of rendering to each other assistance.

KILMENDORF STREET CHURCH NOTES

Mr. Hall of the Y. M. C. A. will give a free entertainment for the boys of the community in the lower assembly hall of the Kilmendorf Street Presbyterian Church tonight at 7:30. It will be a good one with [illegible] and tricks, etc. All the boys of the community are invited and also grown ups who are interested in boys.

The wife of Dr. Frank H. Spence, for years a medical missionary at Point Barrow, Alaska, will speak at the Sunday evening service.

Mrs. Spence has had some experiences on that mission which is near the North Pole—the northernmost hospital on this continent.

No More Basketball.

It is announced that the Ellenville high school basketball season has been officially closed. Ellenville has had one of the best teams ever put out by the school, their only defeat having been by Saugerties on the latter's court. We understand that inability of several players to maintain the requisite scholarship is largely responsible for shortening the season.—The Ellenville Journal.

Boy Scout Troop At Woodstock

Woodstock Citizens Enjoy Practical Demonstration of Activities of a Scout Troop, Given by Church of Redeemer Troop 10.

Thursday evening, twenty-one Boy Scouts, all members of Troop 10 of the Church of the Redeemer, with their Scoutmaster Edward J. Luedtke, and two assistant scoutmasters, Richard Nelson and William Mohr, boarded cars and hit the trail for Woodstock, where a number of the citizens of that village were given a practical demonstration of the activities of a live scout troop.

Without a doubt Troop 10 put on one of the best demonstrations ever witnessed in the county. During the evening the scouts demonstrated their regular troop meeting taking in turn the following activities: Signalling, first aid, bandaging, lifts and carries, drill, fire by friction, songs and yells, bringing their meeting to a close with a prayer offered by the pastor of the Church of the Redeemer, the Rev. William J. Nelson, for their Senior Patrol Leader Christian Port, who was unable to attend the meeting, he being all at his home.

Possibly the stunt that caused the most comment was when Scout Mohr demonstrated with such ease the primitive way in which fires were lighted, using his own home made fire by a friction set of materials found in Ulster county.

After the demonstration, the troop put on display in work or handicraft, which included such articles as metal lanterns, ash trays, flower stands, bird houses, first aid kits, book racks, etc. This work is all done by these boys during the week between meetings. The work was praised very highly by those present.

Kingston and Saugerties folks attending and furnishing cars for this meeting included President Fred S. Van Voorhis, Deputy Commissioner Louis Fellows of Saugerties; Samuel J. Messinger, Frank L. Brown, Louis S. Coe, Frank J. Sheridan, the Rev. William J. Nelson and Scout Executive Nesslage.

Pestilence May Follow Tornado

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chicago, March 20.—A new terror, the dread spectre of pestilence—raised its head in the tornado stricken area of southern Illinois today.

Destruction of all sanitation devices and the ever increasing piles of dead brought an order to the Chicago health department to rush another unit of contagion experts into Murphysboro.

One such unit was sent into the plague-threatened area yesterday, but according to the message to Chicago, its members have been required for casualty relief work, and the message expressed fear that the workers on the scene would not be sufficient to cope with the situation.

Health Commissioner Herman N Bundesen immediately conferred with Red Cross officials here and they declared that some new possibility of contagion must have developed since they had received a message earlier in the day announcing that the anti-tetanus serum had reached the devastated area and that the emergency was completely under control.

LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Mrs. Lucy Burrell of High Woods, town of Saugerties, died at the Kingston City Hospital on Thursday.

The funeral of Sarah C. Elmendorf, widow of Peter P. Brink, will be held from the late residence at Hurley on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment in the Hurley cemetery.

The funeral of Egbert Elmendorf, who died at his home in Stone Ridge Wednesday will be held Saturday afternoon, at 2 o'clock from the late residence. Interment in Fairview Cemetery, near Stone Ridge.

Mrs. Margaret Isabel Honsinger died at Englewood, N. J., on March 10. The interment was made in Fantinekill cemetery at Ellenville on Monday. She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Anthony. Besides her parents and husband she is survived by an infant daughter and one sister.

The burial of Alice Ames Griffiths, wife of John Griffiths of Walden, will take place in the West Park Cemetery on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Service will be conducted by the Rev. R C. Searing, rector of the Ascension Church of West Park.

James C. White, formerly of Kerhonkson, and one time justice of the peace for the town of Wawarsing, died Tuesday at his home in Newport News, Va. The remains were taken to Ellenville today where they were taken in charge by Wawarsing Lodge of Masons of which he had been a member since 1904.

Mrs. Almira Secor, wife of Daniel Secor, died Thursday evening, at her home, 46 Cedar street. Besides her husband she is survived by one daughter, Elizabeth and one son, Hewitt, of this city and a sister, Mrs. Anna Elmendorf of Sterling, Ill. She was a faithful member of the Old School Baptist Church. Funeral from the late residence on Monday morning, at 10 o'clock. Interment in the Hurley Cemetery.

William Nelson Pultz died Tuesday at his residence, 99 Henry street. He is survived by one daughter, Jessie, wife of Bernard W. Healey, and four grandchildren, Margaret, Marion and Mildred Healey and Donald R. Pultz, and two sisters, Mrs. William Paradise of this city and Mrs. James Mac Donald of Brooklyn. Funeral from the late residence on Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Interment in Wiltwyck Cemetery.

Icilia Grant, widow of William H. Lowe of Grahamsville, died March 18 at the home of her sister, Mrs. R. D. Clark, Ellenville, where funeral services were held today. Interment was in Grahamsville. Deceased was the eldest daughter of Isaac N. and Hannah LeRoy Grant, and had resided in Grahamsville for about twenty years. She was a member of the Ellenville Reformed Church and was active in the Home Department of the Sunday school.

The funeral of LeRoy Schoonmaker, who died from exposure and exhaustion on the Mt. Pleasant mountain, where he disappeared last Monday afternoon, was held from the undertaking parlors of Coroner W. N. Conner this morning, at 10 o'clock. The Rev. R. A. Greenwell, pastor of the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church, officiated. Interment was in the family plot in Fairview cemetery at Stone Ridge. Deceased is survived by his father, A. E. Schoonmaker, and two brothers, Joseph of Phoenicia, and Eugene of Montgomery, with whom the elder Mr. Schoonmaker resides.

The funeral of Mrs. Daniel Balzer was held Thursday morning from the late residence, 435 Hasbrouck avenue, at 9 o'clock and from St. Joseph's Church at 9:30, where a high Mass of requiem was offered for the repose of her soul by the Rev. Eugene A. Duggan. Seated in the chancel was the Rev. James Kilroe of The Clove. The services were very largely attended by relatives and friends of the deceased and the floral tributes were profuse and beautiful. At the conclusion of the Mass Miss Marie Reichert rendered very feelingly "Jesus, Jesus, Come to Me". The Rev. Fathers Kilroe and Duggan accompanied the funeral cortege to St. Mary's Cemetery, where the Rev. Father Duggan conducted the committal services.

John T. Evans died at the home of his son, Frank Evans, on the mountain road in Ellenville, on Monday. He was a life member of Wawarsing Lodge of Masons, and was one of the oldest residents of Ellenville, having been born December 16, 1840. Early in life he took up boating on the canal and was engaged on the Morris canal. When the Civil War broke out he enlisted in the Har's Light Cavalry, Second New York Division, and served four years. Toward the close of the war, December 24, 1864, he was married to Celia Hotchkin, who died in 1893. Following her death he married Mrs. Elizabeth Krom, who died about five years ago. Since then he had made his home with his son, Frank. Following the close of the D. & H. canal he boated on the river and Long Island Sound until his health gave way. About three years ago he sustained a stroke and had been practically helpless since. Several weeks ago he succeeded in getting out of bed and fell, breaking his hip. Three children survive, Julia May and John, in Canada, and Frank, of Ellenville.

The funeral of Mrs. Thomas Conlon, who died Monday at her home in Stony Hollow, was held today from St. John's Church, Bristol Hill, where a requiem Mass was celebrated for the repose of her soul by the Rev. Peter Spellman. The bearers were Michael McCann, John Martha, Joseph McSpirit, Thomas Rand, Thomas Conroy and John Britt. The interment was in St. Mary's Cemetery, this city. Mrs. Conlon's death was unexpected as she had attended church on Sunday and on Monday morning was apparently in her usual health when the other members of the family left the house. When her husband returned from his work and their daughter, Julia, from school for lunch, they found Mrs. Conlon dead in the kitchen. It is thought that her heart had been affected from a recent attack of grip. Besides her husband she is survived by three children, Julia, at home, Thomas, Jr., who is employed in Kingston, and Helen, who is employed in Brooklyn. Two sisters also survive, Catherine and Elizabeth Goff. Mrs. Conlon was held in high esteem by all who knew her.

Senate Advances State Dry Bill

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, N. Y., March 20.—The state wide prohibition enforcement bill, sponsored by Senator Wales, Republican of Broome, today was advanced to the order of final passage in the Senate. It is identical with the dry bill sponsored by Assemblyman Jenks, Republican of Broome, which was passed in the lower house last week.

French Deputies In Religious Riots

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Paris, March 20.—Only prompt interference of ushers and adjournment of the Chamber of Deputies prevented furious fist fights this afternoon when Premier Herriot's response to an interpellation on the religious question case a hubbub of dissenting opinion.

Premier Herriot's sentence which immediately preceded the disturbance in the chamber was:

"We do not deny Catholicism's place of salutary influence in French history. We respect Catholicism in its original form, which is quite different from the Christianity of bankers of Christianity for the poor."

President Paul Painleve of the chamber suspended the session at 4:55 o'clock when it became apparent that there was no hope of continuing an orderly session. Deputies were exchanging bitter epithets and groups of deputies from extreme right and left had abandoned their seats to get into the action

Despite the usher's prompt action, Socialist Deputy Canvalli made an effective and hard swing to the head of Conservative Leader Tattinger.

A canvass of spectators showed they were agreed that as many as 25 deputies were tusseling before the tribune, all trying to exchange blows simultaneously. Deputy Du Plessis was stunned when a ballot box was bounced upon his head.

The chamber met again at 5:20 p m. The opposition began hooting the premier anew.

Herriott announced that it was France's intention to establish nonsectarian schools in Alsace as well as in the rest of France. The order resulted in a partial school strike in Alsace, where Bishop Ruch issued a proclamation against the government edict.

'Quake Destroys Chinese City

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Shanghai, March 20.—The city of Talifu, Yun-Nan, populated by 80,000 persons, has been destroyed by an earthquake and fire, according to word received here today.

The city, located near Burma, was reported completely demolished in word received here from missionaries

Foreign residents of the city were reported safe.

Thousands are injured and homeless and aid is urgently needed.

The number of dead is unknown.

Yun-Nan is the southwesternmost province of China. It is a mountainous plateau. Yun-Nan is one of the richest of Chinese provinces in mineral products, yielding gold, silver, lead, copper, tin and anthracite coal.

Mining has been developed extensively in the country. It is agriculturally rich, too. Live stock is bred there on a large scale and much tea grown. Its teas are among the best grades produced in the republic. The provincial population runs well over 12,000,000 persons.

Talifu, on the shores of Lake Erhai, is in the northwestern part of Yun-Nan. Much of its activity is devoted to the salt mines and marble quarries which surround the city.

Talifu is important as the commercial gateway opening into Burma and Indo-China, through which many of the important products of Yun-Nan pass.

Discover Crater Lake in Alaskan Volcano

Seward, Alaska.—W. R. Smith and Sidney Old, old-time Alaskans, in traversing the headwaters of the Aniakchak river recently, discovered a volcano of scientific interest about thirty miles west of Aniakchak bay, on the southern side of the Alaska peninsula. The crater was named Aniakchak after the river rising within its walls.

The crater is similar in size and shape to that of Crater lake in Oregon, but differs in having a comparatively small body of water on its floor. The rim is circular in outline and has a diameter of six miles.

A mountain summit that forms the range is from 1,000 to 1,500 feet above the bottom of the crater, and is unbroken except for a gorge from which the river flows.

Within the crater one cinder cone rises 1,000 feet above the general level of the floor, and there are a number of smaller cones.

A Critic Criticised

James Agate in London Chronicle—"Nine-tenths of our screen idols are, as an English poet has said, 'fatally fashion, fitly regular, splendidly dull.'" Said of them, James? Certainly not! Tennyson wrote that line in 1833, long before screen idols were dreamt of. And, apart from that, James, your statement isn't true—no, sir, 'tain't so!

An Ensemble Suit for Doubtful Spring Days

Lightweight velours is the material used for this ensemble designed for early spring. It is decorated with appliqué diamonds of the same material in a lighter tone, and collared with seal.

Felt, Silk and Straw to Be Used in Spring Hats

There are rumors that felt and silk and silk and straw are to play an important role in millinery fashions for the late spring. Pastel shades are favorites and for trimming interesting fantasies and flower clusters are used.

Here and there a large hat is seen, but one may safely say that for chic nothing quite takes the place of the small, rather close hat.

There are some women who can wear a large hat to perfection and who seem to know how to make it an integral part of their ensemble, but the vast majority put on a hat of considerable size so that one thinks only of the hat and not of the wearer. This perhaps is the reason that for the past three seasons the small hat has reigned supreme. It is more generally becoming because it is not so obvious, and its very lack of ornamentation gives it an air of distinction not appreciated by the elaborately trimmed headgear of a decade ago.

Although it remains small in shape, the hat of the moment changes from month to month. Early in the season the high square crown displaced the bowler crown of the long popular cloche, this in turn was supplanted by the high-peaked crown, and now comes a crown equally high, but dented and twisted to suit each individual wearer. Brims instead of curving downward have taken an upward tilt and add a certain piquancy to the appearance that is undeniably charming.

Headgear Supplied by Milliners of London

A standardized mode in women's hat-wear is feared by London milliners if the cloche fashion is allowed to remain in favor. The square-crowned mode which was to be the successor of the cloche has not been altogether successful. Another mode has been introduced in London, which, like most new things is borrowed from the past. It fits the head snugly, and may be likened to the fool's cap, although other varieties suggest the witch's peak, the crusader's helmet, and the fisherman's cap. The crown is soft, being neither stiffened nor lined; it is sometimes supported on a firm brim of passe or velvet, a neat rolled brim, and the conical crown may be adjusted in any way to suit the wearer.

In some of the new models carried out in dark velvet and silks the fool's-cap shape is exaggerated to assume the outline of the traditional witch's hat. These are cut higher in the crown and finished with galon of gold and silver cord instead of the usual brim.

Winsome, Interesting Objects of Decoration

Anyone who has tucked away in the attic or old trunks a collection of Godey prints has the materials for making any number of interesting and attractive objects of decoration. The most ambitious attempt is a large screen for the bedroom or living room, but it is well worth the effort. The surface is of natural-color linen and the sides are bound with linen tape in a contrasting color. The quaint figures are cut from the prints and appliqued on to the background.

Vogue Affects Trade

The furriers and the glovers are at war again. The vogue of cutsel is responsible. This fur is obtained from baby lambs which also supply the leather for ladies' gloves. Since the cutsel vogue, skinners have been able to obtain better prices from the furriers and the glovers are left without supplies.

Unchallenged Monopoly

Practically every government on earth is a customer of a little shop in New Jersey, where the geometric lathes for engraving the patterns on banknote and similar plates are manufactured.

Financial and Commercial

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, March 20.—Stock prices worked moderately higher today, principally as the result of the lifting of professional selling pressure, covering of shorts, and decline in call money rates to 3 per cent. All of the important departments of the market participated in the rally. General Electric at 266 showed a gain of 5 points from Thursday's close; Universal Pipe Common and Preferred were up about 7 points; Cast Iron Pipe up 11 American Can up 6; United States Steel up 2¼; Pan-American Oil B up 7.

Railroad stocks were in good demand with special interest displayed in Pittsburgh and West Virginia, Erie, Union Pacific, New Haven and Northern Pacific. St. Paul Preferred rose 2 points on short covering.

Pan-American Oil stocks spurted in good fashion and some of the best known independent oil shares joined the upward procession. Pan American B at 81 showed a recovery of about 8 points from the low of the week. Cosden was up 3½ from the low of Tuesday's break and California Petroleum was up 2.

United States Steel returned to prominence as a leader in the rally of the high priced industrial shares. Large sized blocks of this stock changes hands at steadily advancing prices. Equipment stocks were comparatively inactive. Wabash Preferred advanced to 65¼ on rumors that the stock will go on a 5 per cent basis next Thursday.

Their Golden Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Nickason of Ellenville celebrated their golden wedding on Tuesday evening at the home of their daughter, Mrs. George Herron, in Ellenville. About fifty guests were present and enjoyed the festivities. Mr. and Mrs. Nickason received many gifts and tokens of congratulations.

Asharhaeton Club.

The Asharhaeton Club met on Thursday afternoon at the home of Miss Margaret Loughran on Main street. Miss Loughran entertained and interested the members present with her excellent paper on "Hawthorne, Longfellow, Alice Brown." Next Wednesday the club will meet with Miss Easley, at 52 Main street.

Hunter-Cole.

A quiet wedding was held Sunday at St. Ann's Church, Ruby, when Miss E. M. Cole of Ruby became the bride of Martin Hunter. Miss Annie Cole, sister of the bride and Edward Stauble were the attendants. The bride wore blue canton crepe with hat to match and the bridesmaid was gowned also in blue canton crepe with hat to match. A delicious supper followed at the home of the bride.

Settle Action For Negligence

A negligence action brought by Dr. John L. MacKinnon against the City of Kingston and Matilda L. Cordts to recover damages sustained when it is alleged plaintiff fell into an open trap-door in the sidewalk leading to the cellar at 280 Fair street, was announced as settled in the supreme court Thursday. Floyd W. Powell appeared for plaintiff and Judge James Jenkins and Fowler & Loughran for defendants.

Demonstration of Food Saturday

Professor Lucile Brewer from Cornell will give the next of her demonstrations on the preparation of food at the Home Economics Laboratory of the High School Saturday afternoon, beginning at 12:30. This is one of the series of demonstrations under the auspices of the Home Bureau to teach new ways and the best ways of preparing various foods. The demonstration this time will be on the preparation of vegetables.

Everybody is welcome to attend whether members of the Home Bureau or not if they will only come on time—12:30. The demonstration will probably be finished by 2:00. Please use the entrance on the side towards the library.

Nurmi Will Run Saturday

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, March 20.—According to a statement made public by his adviser Hugo Quist, today, Paavo Nurmi has so far recovered from the effects of the stomach trouble that caused his withdrawal in the midst of a race several nights ago that he is certain to go to the mark in a special race at 1⅛ miles tomorrow night at the post office games here. Many of Nurmi's closest rivals will appear in another race on the program, Lloyd Hahn, Willie Ritola, Leo Larrivee and Willie Goodwin having entered the mile special.

Nurmi will try himself out in a brief jog over a local armory floor today.

Porcupines Annoy Railroad

The government's Alaska railroad has to fight porcupines. Rubber in any form is to the porcupine what waste paper and rubbish are to the American goat, popular for lunching purposes, and the railroad officials have ordered rubber hose in pumping stations and all rubber fixtures to be iron or high poles.

Humphreys Are Wed 63 Years

Sixty-three years ago Wednesday Miss Catherine Kniffen and Seymour W. Humphrey, both of Esopus, were married in Highland by the Rev. J. Lobaugh. Wednesday night they celebrated their sixty-third wedding anniversary at a reception held in Lovelace Hall at Pleasant Valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Humphrey have been residents of Pleasant Valley for the past twenty-five years. A carpenter by trade, Mr. Humphrey in recent years entered the contracting business and he has built many houses in Pleasant Valley and vicinity.

He is still active and despite his 87 years he worked every day last year in erecting a house in Pleasant Valley. His wife is also enjoying good health. Among the relatives at the reception were two great grandchildren and four grandchildren as well as two sisters, Mrs. Charles Chamberlain and Mrs. Martha Hammond. A daughter, Mrs. Blathice Sherwood, and a son, Orville Humphrey, were also at the celebration.

Resolutions.

At a meeting of the Staff of the Kingston City Hospital, the Staff was called to order and the purpose of the call was given by the secretary, Dr. A. A. Stern and the following words:

It is with profound sorrow that we again meet to recognize the loss of another member. It has pleased God in His Infinite Wisdom to take from us our friend and co-worker, Dr. Vrooman. Our loss is expressed in our profound sorrow. Dr. Vrooman has given his services, unreservedly to the hospital for a long term of years. He aided in its prosperity with his self-sacrifice and untiring efforts. His skill and wisdom in his profession, his keen interest in the perfection of medical skill, his ever wise counsel ever made him a benefactor never to be forgotten. His courage, integrity and sympathy, his ever kind and cheerful words shall never fade from our memory. His passing will be felt as a personal loss by all who knew him. To know him was to love him.

Resolved: The Medical and surgical Staff of Kingston City Hospital received with regret the announcement of the death of one of its earliest and most eminent members.

Resolved: That while the members most sincerely sympathize with the family and his friends in the severe loss they have experienced, they are still consoled by the realization that the life of Dr. Vrooman has been spent in the exercise of one of the best of human pursuits and that his career has been distinguished by unwearied attention to the welfare of the sick and by honest and sincere endeavors to uphold and advance the usefulness and dignity of his profession.

Resolved: As a just tribute of respect to his memory, that this Staff will attend the funeral ceremonies in a body.

Resolved: That a copy of these resolutions be communicated to the family of the deceased and also to be published.

DR. A. A. STERN, Secretary

Likely to Reduce Taxes in State

Republican Legislators Believed to Be in Accord on Income Tax Reduction, Although Lowman and Knight Are Not Yet Convinced.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, N. Y., March 20.—A split between the Republican leaders of the senate and assembly over tax reduction was predicted at the capitol today.

Speaker McGinnies, Republican leader of the house, believes the Republican members of both houses could cooperate with Governor Smith to bring about a reduction in taxes.

Lieutenant Governor Seymour Lowman and Senator Knight, Republican leader of the upper house, have not yet been convinced by the governor that a cut should be made in the income tax this year.

"I have my mind made up about tax reduction but I do not know what the Republican leaders in the senate intend to do," said Speaker McGinnies.

Pointing to the fact that the governor had slashed all but $681,000 out of the $15,900,000 appropriations which the Republicans said were for "necessary projects," friends of the executive declared today there was no reason why a bill providing for a 25 per cent reduction in the income tax should not be passed by the legislature next week.

In his reply to the Republicans, the governor reiterated his oft-repeated declaration that the income tax could be reduced if the Republican leaders would cooperate with him.

The governor cut about $3,414,000 out of the annual appropriation bill in an effort to bring the state's expenditures down to a point where a cut could be made in the income tax.

Governor Smith, George K. Morris, Republican state chairman, Senator Mastick, Republican of Westchester, chairman of the Senate committee on taxation, and Senator Nicoll, Republican of New York, conferred at the Executive Mansion for an hour last night on tax reduction. Senator Nicoll has a bill pending in the Legislature providing for a general reduction in the income tax.

It is understood the entire tax reduction question was thoroughly discussed at the conference at the mansion but that no decision was reached.

Chairman Morris later conferred with Speaker McGinnies which gave rise to reports that the entire Republican leadership in the Legislature was being passed to the speaker.

BLACK BASS BILL PASSED BY SENATE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, March 20.—The Pratt bill, which prohibits the taking of black bass until July 1 instead of from June 16, except in Lake Ontario and the St. Lawrence river, where the original seasons remain unchanged, was passed in the Senate today. It now goes to the governor.

St. Peter's Honor Rev. Ostermann

On Thursday evening, at an informal gathering, the members of St. Peter's Lyceum in behalf of the parishioners of St. Peter's Church, presented the Rev. Joseph Ostermann, the popular curate of St. Peter's, with a purse of one thousand dollars as a testimonial of their appreciation of his zealous work amongst the parishioners, especially the young people of the parish.

The Rev. John P. Neumann, pastor of St. Peter's Church, in presenting the purse and addressing those present praised and gave much credit to Father Ostermann for his untiring efforts and the work he has accomplished during the six years he has been in Kingston. He also expressed the hope that he might remain with them for some time to come.

Father Neumann then called on different members of the Lyceum, who responded in words of commendation and praise for Father Ostermann's interest and activity in parish affairs.

In Father Ostermann's address, delivered in his usual sincere manner, he expressed his deep appreciation of the honor bestowed upon him.

ASSEMBLY PASSES ANTI-POSTER BILL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, March 20.—The Stapley bill, prohibiting the use of posters or stickers on windshields or rear windows of automobiles, unless authorized by the state commission of motor vehicles, was passed in the Assembly today.

Gregory's Window Broken.

Inspection of Artillery Units

The annual muster and inspection of First Battalion Headquarters, Headquarters Detachment and Combat Train and Battery A of the 156th Field Artillery, was held at the state armory on Broadway Thursday evening. The inspection was a decided success and was witnessed by a large number of visitors who commented favorably on the fine appearance of the men.

The inspecting officers were Colonel A. L. Rugan for the state, and Major P. L. Thurber for the Federal government. Colonel Egan and Captain Needham were also present at the inspection.

Pope Expresses Deep Sympathy

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Rome, March 20.—News of the disastrous tornado in the United States was received at the Vatican with expressions of deep sympathy for relatives and friends of those who met death.

Pope Pius today cabled to Apostolic Delegate Fumasoni in the United States that he was deeply affected by the disaster and trusted that everything possible was being done for the survivors.

FAMOUS FORTS IN U. S. HISTORY

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

Where the Power of the Sioux Was Broken.

In 1874 there was established near the Red Cloud agency in the northwestern corner of Nebraska a military post which is historically important because around it centered the events which broke forever the power of the Sioux and their allies, the Northern Cheyenne. Fort Robinson was its name and its presence in the midst of the Oglala Sioux kept thousands of them from joining the hostiles at the opening of the Sioux war of 1876-77.

Near it in October, 1876, General Crook further clipped their wings by surrounding the camp of old Chief Red Cloud and disarming and dismounting his warriors. From it the next month Col. Ranald S. Mackenzie led the expedition which defeated Chief Dull Knife and his Cheyennes, destroyed their village on the Crazy Woman's fork of the Powder river and scored the first real success in the campaign. There, too, Crazy Horse, the young war chief of the Oglalas, fell mortally wounded when he resisted an attempt to imprison him.

Perhaps the most dramatic incident connected with the history of Fort Robinson was the outbreak of the Cheyennes in 1879. Dull Knife's Cheyennes had been sent to Oklahoma but they hated their new home and jumped the reservation. After successfully eluding pursuit for several hundred miles, they were finally captured and taken to Fort Robinson. When told they must return to Oklahoma, they again attempted to break away. Many of them were shot down as they tried to escape from the fort, the remainder were recaptured and again they were returned to the hated Southland. So Fort Robinson marked the end of the Cheyennes as a warrior people, just as it did the Sioux.

The usefulness of Fort Robinson passed away with the end of the Indian wars. Today it is a place of ghosts—ghosts of the redmen and white who once helped make it famous. Near it are buried two renowned scouts—California Joe and Baptiste Garnier, the "Little Bat" of Sioux war days, both victims of an assassin. Somewhere near the fort, too, sleeps Crazy Horse in a secret burying place of which it has been said: "Just as the grave of General Custer on the Barren hill above the Little Big Horn was the high-water mark of Indian supremacy in the trans-Missouri region, so the forgotten grave of Crazy Horse marks the ebb from which no tide has ever risen."

Fires in Forests

It is not practicable to equip forests with lightning rods. No remedy is now in sight for disastrous forest fires due to lightning, such as have occurred on a vast scale in the western states during the last season, says Nature Magazine of Washington. When lightning strikes a tree the ordinary result is to splinter the wood or strip off bark through the sudden generation of steam. In the great majority of cases the tree is not set on fire. Nevertheless the aggregate number of forest fires started by lightning is, in many parts of the country, greater than the number due to all other causes combined.

LATEST NEWS OF NEW YORK STATE FARM ORGANIZATIONS

Prepared for This Paper by the New York State Farm Bureau Federation, Ithaca, N. Y.

Land Bank System's Resources a Billion

The Federal Land banks have passed the billion dollar mark in total resources for the first time since their organization.

The latest statement of the land banks was analyzed for The Journal of Commerce by Charles E. Lobdell, fiscal agent of the system and former farm loan commissioner of the Federal Farm Loan board.

"This is one of the greatest business accomplishments of all time," said Mr. Lobdell, "and by all odds the greatest achievement in the fields of agricultural finance. Starting eight years ago with no organizations and only $9,000,000 of capital, practically all supplied by the government, hailed for nearly eighteen months by hostile litigation, 348,947 farmers have been organized into 4,642 nationa farm loan associations and through these into the compact organization of the land banks, with resources now totaling 4,019,709,591 and steadily increasing.

"The amortized loan has been demonstrated as the only sound method of farm financing, and is being gradually put into practice by the major commercial farm loan agencies."

Farm Bureau Protests Proposal of U. S. D. A.

A protest against the advice of the U. S. Department of Agriculture that farmers increase their potato acreage this year was voiced by the executive committee of the New York State Farm Bureau Federation at a recent meeting in Ithaca. A resolution on the question was passed as follows. "Moved that the president use his influence through the American Farm Bureau Federation to protest against the unwarranted interferences of the United States department of agriculture in advising an increase in potato acreage. Carried."

J. C. Corwith, president of the Suffolk County Farm Bureau, which numbers in its membership some of the biggest potato growers in the East, has sent to the Bureau of Economics of the United States department of agriculture a copy of a resolution stating the opposition of the Suffolk County Farm Bureau to the proposed increase in potato acreage. The resolution says in part:

"Whereas, potato production has been ample or excessive for the past five years, and whereas excessive production has caused heavy losses to potato producers in much of the United States,

"Be it resolved by the executive committee of the Suffolk County Farm bureau that the recommendation of the U. S. department of agriculture tending to favor an increase in potato acreage for 1925 is opposed to the best interests of potato growers, and,

"Be it further resolved that the said recommendation is obviously mistaken and should be promptly retracted and full publicity be given to such retraction."

Farm Bureaus Grow in Membership

If farm bureau membership can be taken as a yard stick-measure-indication New York state farmers are planning to attack their economic problems with renewed vigor this year. Membership in the county associations of farmers which work with the state college of agriculture in maintaining county farm bureaus is showing a decided increase.

With the period when farmers join the associations only about half over and interruptions because of bad storms and impassable roads nine counties have enrolled more members than they had last year. These are Broome, Cattaraugus, Dutchess, Essex, Greene, Jefferson, St. Lawrence, Saratoga and Seneca counties, located in every section of the state and representing every type of agriculture.

Through the machinery of the county farm bureaus most of the progressive moves designated to improve agricultural conditions are inaugurated. It is through the bureau headquarters that farmers keep in touch with scientific developments in agriculture and through their county and community committee that they carry out programs for the development of the industry.

League Cancellations Small

The Dairymen's League Co-operative Association, Inc., announced a total of 1,051 cancellations received during the recent withdrawal period, Feb. 12 to 26 inclusive. This figure represents the cancellation notices received from active members and is considerably less than the cancellations a year ago. The approximate total number of inactive contracts cancelled, that is, dairymen who have discontinued farming or dairying, is reported as 1,744. In addition to these figures, the association for the first time in its history sent cancellation notices to 674 members in accordance with provisions in the league contract by which either contratting party may exercise the right to cancel during the cancellation period.

Valuable Paper Weight

After being used for years as a common paper weight, what is said to be the largest sapphire in the world has been taken from India to London. The jewel is worth more than $35,000, weighs 916 carats, and is in the form of a plucked flower with a short stem. It was acquired by a government official in India who, ignorant of its value, used it as a paperweight in one of the guard huts on the Indian frontier. The discovery of the jewel was made by the director of Indian revenue when he visited the outpost. Its history has been traced to the Twelfth century when one of the Bellalla kings, while on a pilgrimage to Ceylon, was given the sapphire by a Buddhist monk. During the reign of this king the stone became the object of much veneration and was afterward captured by Malik Kaffur, the great general of Allandan. Later it came into the possession of a state official, but was lost about 1875. Experts are of the opinion that the jewel was a hair ornament of an ancient deity, and there is, it is believed, a companion stone in existence.

Contradictory

Not far off the boulevard between Los Angeles and San Diego are some quaint towns and one of them has a unique garage. At one time it was a church, but now a double door has been cut through the side and the vestibute at the front is used for an office. But the blend of old and new affords a laugh to every traveler who stops there, for over the door, weather-beaten but still readable, is a scriptural quotation that goes: "Behold, I have set before you an open door." And on the panel below the garage man has inscribed in red paint, "Positively no admittance."

Horse No Flatterer

Because of the interest America takes in the young prince of Wales, and because the prince is so often thrown from his horse when playing polo, the following words of Ben Jonson, "Rare Ben," who lived 1574-1637, are of special significance, and show that "horse sense" is the same in all centuries:

"They say princes learned no art truly but the art of horsemanship. The reason is the horse is no flatterer. He will throw a prince as soon as his groom."

Report Gold Deposits

It is reported that gold and silver deposits have been discovered sixty miles from Mistassini, in the Lake St. John (Canada) district, according to word received by the provincial government. The exact value of the ore is unknown, as the samples have been sent to the assayers in that district.

Few "White" Buffaloes

In 1832 or 1833 the Mandans, says the Pittsburgh Sun, hearing that the Blackfeet at the mouth of the Yellowstone had a white buffalo robe, sent a delegation with eight horses and with trading goods the 200 miles to procure the robe if possible.

The delegation left the horses and the goods and returned afoot with the robe. This was consecrated to the Great Spirit and hung upon a pole, out of touch, as powerful medicine.

It is said that not one in 100,000 buffalo was white. Even at that, the color was likely to be a yellowish white, and the robe was known by the plainsmen as a "buckskin" robe. The pure white robe scarcely existed.

Basilicas

The name "Basilica" was given in ancient Rome to buildings used as meeting places for business men, and as courts of justice. A basilica consisted of a long central hall or nave, with aisles, the aisles being separated from the nave by pillars supporting the roof. At the end of the nave, opposite the entrance, was a raised platform, or dais, with seats for the judges. To give additional space there was sometimes added at this farther end, a semicircular structure called an apse. After the introduction of Christianity, basilicas were very generally converted into churches, and thus it is that the form of the modern cathedral is derived from the ancient Roman basilica.—Kansas City Star.

Barbaric Destruction

The Saracens were enabled to beat water for their baths for a period of six months with the 700,000 volumes they took from the great library of Alexandria, Egypt, by Caliph Omar's orders in 640 A. D.

MORE FRIGHTFUL THAN DANGEROUS

Cougar Not So Menacing a Creature as Is Generally Supposed.

Washington, D. C.—The cougars which recently have been causing alarm in Washington state are not so menacing as they are reported to be, according to a bulletin from the Washington (D. C.) headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"The cougar, or mountain lion, while powerful enough to be dangerous to man, is in reality extremely timid," says the bulletin, based on a communication from Dr. E. W. Nelson.

"Owing to its being a potentially dangerous animal, the popular conception of it is that of a fearsome beast, whose savage exploits are celebrated in the folklore of our frontier. As a matter of fact, few wild animals are less dangerous, although there are authentic accounts of wanton attacks upon people, just as there are authentic instances of buck deer and moose becoming aggressive. It has a wild, screaming cry which is thrillingly impressive when the shades of evening are throwing a mysterious gloom over the forests. In the mountains of Arizona one summer a mountain lion repeatedly passed along a series of ledges high above my cabin at dusk, uttering this loud weird cry, popularly supposed to resemble the scream of a terrified woman.

Is a Tireless Wanderer.

"The mountain lion is usually nocturnal, but in regions where it is not hunted it not infrequently goes abroad by day. It is a tireless wanderer, often traveling many miles in a single night, sometimes in search of game and again in search of new hunting grounds. I have repeatedly followed its tracks for long distances along trails, and in northern Chihuahua I once tracked one for a couple of miles from a bare rocky hill straight across the open, grassy plain toward a treeless desert mountain, for which it was heading, some eight or ten miles away.

"Although inoffensive as to people, this cat is such a fierce and relentless enemy of large game and live stock that it is everywhere an outlaw.

Secures Prey by Stealth.

"A mountain lion usually secures its prey by a silent, cautious stalk, taking advantage of every cover until within striking distance, and then, with one or more powerful leaps, dashing the victim to the ground with all the stunning impact of its weight.

"In a beautiful live-oak forest on the mountain of San Luis Potosi I once trailed one of these great cats to the spot where it had killed a deer a short time before, and could plainly read in the trail the story of the admirable skill with which it had moved from cover to cover until it reached a knoll at one side of the little glade where the deer was feeding. Then a great leap carried it to the deer's back and struck the victim to the ground with such violence that it slid 10 or 12 feet across the sloping ground, apparently having been killed on the instant."

Seattle, Wash.—Alaska's commerce for 1924 compared favorably with that of previous years, except in the value of precious metal and domestic merchandise shipped to the United States, the annual report of John C. McBride of Juneau, collector of customs for Alaska, announced. The year had a total commerce of $92,596,118, a loss of $480,635, compared with 1923.

Shipments of merchandise into Alaska aggregated $32,580,061, an increase of $1,279,610 compared with 1923. The number of persons arriving in the territory in 1924 was 25,021, or 577 more than those departing, while in 1923 the departures exceeded the arrivals by 1,212 persons.

The value of fish and fish products for 1924, $30,140,740, constituted more than 64 per cent of the shipments from the territory.

The copper ore industry showed a decrease in production of 5,900,190 pounds and $2,104,476 in value, compared with 1923.

Gold and silver exports from Alaska in 1924 totaled $5,139,656, against $6,569,139 in 1923.

Alaskans Get Cream, Milk Delivered on String

Nome, Alaska.—The milkman here doesn't worry about spilling his milk. He calls from house to house and delivers a block of frozen reindeer milk or cream equal to a pint or a quart. A white cord frozen into the block of milk serves as a handle to facilitate delivering.

The blocks of milk and cream are usually dropped in oiled paper looking for all the world like ice cream. One feature about the milk business here is that so long as it remains frozen there is no deterioration in the quantity or quality.

Lives in Sewer

Youngstown, Ohio.—Police are seeking employment for a man, sixty-three, discovered making his home in a large concrete sewer under the Oak street bridge. He had dug small gate for fireplaces and ditches to carry off the drainage. The man said he had waged a losing fight against destitution.

Travelers in Africa Make Slow Progress

All over central Africa the tsetse fly renders pack animals of any kind an impossible dream; except for a very few, though increasing, arteries motor roads are unknown; and so when one travels, one travels on one's feet, and one's baggage goes on the heads of porters.

Various paternal governments have laid down that these loads shall not exceed 50 pounds in weight, and one of the things to remember about central African travel—"safari," as it is called—is that one's boxes should be of such size that when filled with ordinary things they will turn the scale at about that weight.

Another thing to remember is never to be in a hurry. The African porter is sure, but he is amazingly slow. Three miles per hour is the accepted pace and 15 miles a day about the limit on a journey lasting any length of time.

To the man accustomed to be rushed the same distance in half an hour this may seem unutterably tedious; but it has its compensations—the smart through the cool freshness of an African dawn, a endless succession of fascinating sights, a new bird or beetle or a new galloping antelope in sight, here a native village with laughing, chattering women and solemn naked children gazing shyly at the white man; here (great excitement) the fresh tracks of elephants churning across the tracks; the arrival in camp and the pleasant comfort of a battered deck chair while the cook prepares that finest of meals—your own bag shot one's self, the long dreamless nights of perfect sleep.

And, above all, the African is reliable; he does not go on a strike; but, being merely a poor primitive savage, serves his master with loyalty and fidelity for the wages agreed upon in the first instance.—Ex Ranger.

Veteran Looks Back

"Almost 50 years ago the writer, a freckle-faced, spindling kid, started on the downward road as printer's devil in the Palmyra Spectator office. Three years later he was a journeyman printer in the old Hannibal Courier office, and in 1872 printer, reporter and editor. For more than 50 years he has been a writer on the Missouri press, and as to service is the oldest active editor in the state. He has had the double honor of having been called 'the boy editor,' and now the dean of the active fraternity. It has been a work of love and we've never regretted that we learned the trade. We have had our ups and downs, mostly down, but never out. Not one do we recall living who was in the writing game in 1870-72. If we ever get the Journal where we will not have to be editor, printer and devil—the entire works—we hope to hammer out a few chapters about the people and things of other days."—Atlanta Constitution.

Wheat of High Grade

Wheat grown under ordinary conditions on the experimental farm of Dr. Seager Wheeler in Saskatchewan, Canada, bears heads of grain containing 32 rows of kernels. Other strains of plants are said to ripen within 30 days after the shoots appear above ground, and stocks with both hollow and solid stems of yellow and purple have been reared without any special efforts of cultivation. Wheat berries as large as navy beans are also reported to have been developed on the farm, and specimens have been raised on which the heads ripen while the stalks are still green. It is believed that of the sturdy and fruitful species under cultivation, many will be found to resist disease as well as drought, neither being storms common to the region.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

The Tables Turned

"But we were only 15 minutes getting here!" expostulated the passenger.

"I don't give a hang about that!" snarled the taxi driver. "The meter says we've come 20 miles. Now, cough over!"

"All right," assented the passenger, paying. "From my point of view it's one for driving 80 miles an hour. I'm a speed cop" — American Legion Weekly.

Ocean Waves Trifles to Those of the Air

It is rather startling to learn, and from high scientific authority, too, that we are living most of the time submerged in waves to which the greatest waves of the ocean are mere ripples in point of size. When a current of air blows across a water surface water waves are produced, and when a current of air blows across a surface of quiet air, or air having a different motion from the first current, then air waves are produced.

These atmospheric waves, we are assured, have all of the phenomena of water waves—troughs, crests, foam, breakers and spray—but since the qualities of air and water are so different the air waves have dimensions over 2,500 times those of the corresponding water waves.

Thus the great ocean waves of perhaps twenty-five feet height would have atmospheric counterparts extending upward a distance of ten or twelve miles above the earth's surface.

The undulating movement of such air waves accounts in part for the intermittent gusts of wind which we notice so frequently in storms.—Washington Star.

Little Reverence for Long-Dead Statesmen

The Pantheon is visited nowadays under conditions which seem decidedly lacking in the respect due to the memory of great men. You pay a franc to get inside the building, and for 50 centimes more you can join an assembly of idlers for a visit to the crypts in the wake of a guide who appears to be on very familiar terms with the distinguished dead buried there, says Paris Figaro.

The aforesaid guide will rather delight to show you the tombstone where not less than forty centimes of the first empire sleep. Then he will do the period and the tombs of Victor Hugo and Gambetta, and so back to the vestibule, where he asks you if you might go and see the tomb of Zola. It is the guide, of course, who is the guilty party. It really has not much else to do, and it knows that all these visitors to the crypts are after Zola. Zola is dead, and he is buried in a marble tomb of considerable size and made of wax.

Standings For Both Halves In Metropolitan League

The Brooklyn team outclassed the rest of the field in the Metropolitan Basketball League taking two halves of the season as a unit. Kingston was the only club to beat the winners of the second half in the year's series, while Greenpoint broke even. All the other teams were beaten handily.

Brooklyn led in the scoring of the most points, while Kingston had the best average with 31.1 per game, while Greenpoint had the best defense, limiting the opposition to but 28.3 points per game. Brooklyn led in field goals with 336, with Paterson and Greenpoint tied in fouls with 585 each. Both Paterson and Greenpoint scored the highest percentage of fouls with .519 each.

The average points scored in the 1924-1925 season per game were 59.6, while in the 1923-24 season the average was 56.9. The foul shooting average for all clubs for both halves was .500 this past season as compared with .503 in 1923-24.

MARTIN TO DEFEND TITLE AGAINST ROSENBERG

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, March 20.—Special precautions against another unpopular decision will be taken at Madison Square Garden tonight when Eddie "Cannonball" Martin defends his world's bantamweight title against Charley Rosenberg. Hints that the latter's followers believe they "are in on a good thing" and are wagering thousands of dollars on the result have caused James A. Farley, new chairman of the State Athletic Commission, to make a personal selection of the two judges and the referee who will officiate, it was reported.

Odds on the outcome slightly favor Martin although Rosenberg fought the Brooklyn entry to a standstill on two previous occasions. It will be the first time Martin has defended his title.

CATHOLIC INTERSCHOLASTIC BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chicago, Ill., March 20.—Five first round games remained to be played as the National Catholic interscholastic basketball tournament at Loyola University here went into its second day today.

These games, it was expected would be completed this morning, leaving the afternoon for the first of the second round matches. The tournament, which will bring forth the National Catholic champion team will end Sunday night.

Will Redeem Irish Free State Bonds

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, March 20—The Free State government has promised to redeem in 1927 the Irish Republican bonds which were issued to finance the Republican struggle in Ireland, the Catholic Herald announced today. The amount of the bonds outstanding is approximately 3,000,000 pounds, the largest part of which are held in the United States.

Goldstein Forced To Win.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, March 20.—Making his first appearance in the ring since stripped of his bantamweight title by Eddie Cannonball Martin last December, Abe Goldstein was forced to his limit to get the decision over Tommy Milton last night. The ex-champion dropped Milton with a right to the jaw, for a count of nine in the seventh round, but was himself deposited on the floor for a short count in the eleventh.

Familiar Happening

Mary had been brought up, so to speak, in the front seat of her father's motor car. At ten she took her first train journey. When they made the first stop she looked surprised.

Leaning out of the window, she inquired anxiously of the conductor, who had just swung himself off the steps; "What's the matter? Killed your engine?"—Vancouver Province.

Eskimo Girls Go Home After Schooling Abroad

Los Angeles, Cal.—The spell of the arctic has proved stronger than 5,000 years of civilization to two little Eskimo girls who came here aboard the Danish motorship Tungting, bound back to their home up under the North pole after four years of European schooling.

Four years ago Capt. Roald Amundsen, arctic explorer and discoverer of the South pole, reached East cape, Siberia, after traversing the Northwest passage by way of Greenland. From East cape, the most westerly point of Eurasia and only a few hundred miles from the North pole, he took back to Denmark with him, Kamilla Carpendale, eleven years old, and Kakomia Kabot, seven. They were to be educated in the best schools in Europe and after that, if they chose, return to their arctic home.

Kamilla is the daughter of Charles Carpendale, an Australian adventurer who married an Eskimo girl and lives on East cape, while Kakomia is a full-blooded Eskimo lass—with the features of the typical arctic dweller.

Mind Had Slumbered

A curious case on record is that of a blacksmith, Paul Stengel, who was kicked in the head by a horse while in the middle of a sentence addressed to his assistant, and remained unconscious for several days. On recovering, his mind was an absolute blank, until one day he fell down a flight of steps, pitching on his head.

He was picked up in a dazed condition; and on recovering his senses the first words he uttered were the completion of the sentence that had been interrupted by the horse's kick some months earlier.

Took a "Day Off"

The longest night in history, September 2, 1752, was when the Gregorian calendar was adopted in England, through the influence of Lord Chesterfield. The calendar arranged by Julius Caesar, by not making sufficient allowance for leap year, had caused the English date to become 11 days behind the right time. These days were omitted after September 2, so that the next day was reckoned as September 14.
